RED

screenplay by

Jon Hoeber & Erich Hoeber based on the graphic novel "RED" by Warren Ellis FADE IN:

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT

FRANK MOSES lies awake in bed, waiting for the beginning of the day. 4:59 AM changes to 5:00 and he gets up.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAWN

Wearing a tattered bathrobe, Frank watches his coffee brew.

He's compact and in good shape with broad shoulders and close-cropped hair. He could be 50s, could be 60s - he has this grizzled quality that makes it tough to tell.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - DAY

Like the rest of the house, the living room is only nominally furnished: a sofa, lamp, and a shelf of records.

   Frank cranks out a set of pushups.
   Frank cranks out jumping jacks.
   Frank cranks out sit-ups. Not crunches... sit-ups.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY

Frank eats two eggs and dry toast at the small table.

One small frying pan, one plate, one knife, and one fork are set in the rack to dry.

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - DAY

Wearing a devastatingly uncool sun hat, Frank picks a lone weed from the dirt around his roses, then stands back to admire them: they're withered and sickly.

He looks over sourly at the roses next door: a dazzling array of color.

A young MOM comes out of the house with a baby in a stroller.

   MOM
   Hi, Mr. Moses.

Frank puts on a smile and gives her a wave.
INT. SUPERMARKET - DAY

Frank contemplates a shelf full of cans of BEANS. He starts loading up his cart - at least 50 cans.

ANOTHER AISLE

Frank loads up 50 cans of SPINACH.

CHECKOUT COUNTER

A teenage CASHIER eyes Frank as she rings him up.

   CASHIER
   Guess you like beans.

   FRANK
   They're all right.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY

Frank puts his groceries away, revealing that his cabinets are already filled with cans. He carefully places the new ones in back, rotating his stock.

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAY

Frank goes through his mail, tossing the junk, leaving only one letter: a green envelope. He tears it open: a check from the U.S. Government.

Pulling an LP from a shelf of vinyl records, Frank drops it onto the stereo and lowers the needle.

Picking up the phone, he takes a deep breath and dials.

   OPERATOR (V.O.)
   May I have your social?

   FRANK
   Five four three, six six, two two nine one. Pension services please.

   OPERATOR (V.O.)
   Thank you Mr. Moses. Please hold for your representative.

There's a series of CLICKS as the call is transferred.

INTERCUT - INT. HUGE OFFICE - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Rows of cubicles stretch out beneath the fluorescent lighting, filled with operators on headsets.
SARAH ROSS, older than 30, but we won't say more than that, sits in a cubicle spruced up with spider plants, postcards, and pictures.

She's pretty, conservative looking, and bored.

SARAH
Hi, this is Sarah.

FRANK
Hey. It's Frank Moses.

She immediately brightens.

SARAH
Hey Frank. What's going on?

FRANK
Nothing really. I was just calling because I didn't get my check again.

SARAH
Oh jeez. I can't believe they haven't worked this out. I'll make sure they get another one out today.

FRANK
It's no big deal. Whenever you get around to it.

SARAH
I'm just sorry this happened again.

Frank leans back, tearing up his check.

FRANK
What are you gonna do?

A pause draws out between them.

FRANK (cont'd)
Well, I guess...

SARAH
So how are your roses doing?

Frank hurriedly answers...

FRANK
It's a massacre. I've got rust and mold. Now I've sprayed them so much they have chemical burns.

SARAH
You try soapy water?
FRANK
That works?

SARAH
I swear. Hey what are you listening to?

He lights up.

FRANK
It's The Chirping Crickets; Buddy Holly's first album in '57.

SARAH
Never heard it.

FRANK
It's before your time. Hell, it's before my time, but it's an amazing record. It has the first released version of "That'll Be the Day."

She smiles.

SARAH
You have a lot of free time, don't you?

FRANK
Little bit. Yeah.
(beat)
I don't have the foggiest idea what to do with myself.

SARAH
What did you do before you retired?

FRANK
I was in the diplomatic corps.

This strikes a chord.

SARAH
Really? I'd give anything to travel more.

FRANK
Believe me, it's not so fun when it's business.

SARAH
I just want to quit my job and move to Spain for six months.

FRANK
You should. You'd have an amazing time.
SARAH
I can see why retirement would be hard. Maybe what you need is to fall in love with something new.

Frank smiles.

FRANK
Yeah. I guess so.

An annoying looking woman with a pinched face appears at the edge of Sarah's cubicle.

SARAH
My supervisor. I gotta go.

Sarah hangs up and aggressively stares the woman down.

SARAH (cont'd)
What?

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT
Frank sits on the floor of the darkened room, repeatedly bouncing a rubber ball against the wall and catching it.

INT. SARAH'S APARTMENT - NIGHT
Sarah sits at the table in her kitchen eating dinner alone and reading a spy thriller.

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - DAY
Heading inside, Frank sorts through his mail. Two pieces of junk and another green envelope. He smiles.

INT. HUGE OFFICE - DAY - CONTINUOUS
Sarah's on her headset.

SARAH
You need excitement. A passion. Something that makes you feel alive.

INTERCUT - INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY - LATER
Frank dumps a can of spinach into a pot.

FRANK
Excitement is overrated.
SARAH
How can you say that? Everyone needs excitement. The most I get is fighting with my mother.

FRANK
What about?

SARAH
She keeps trying to set me up on blind dates with her bridge partners' kids. She just told me she's worried I'm gay.

(suddenly concerned)
I'm not, by the way.

FRANK
Good to know.

SARAH
I think we need to talk about something else.

Frank can't help but grin.

FRANK
What are you reading this week?

SARAH
Just a romance.

FRANK
What?

SARAH
It doesn't matter.

FRANK (teasing)
Come on.

There's a long guilty beat.

SARAH
It's called Love's Savage Secret.

Frank mulls this over.

FRANK
Is it good?

SARAH
It's terrible! I love it! The lead is a sort of a Britney/Lindsay character marooned on this island with her tennis pro and a prince.
FRANK
Who's Britney Lindsay?

SARAH
Very funny.

Frank was serious, but lets it go.

FRANK
Hey, hold on a second, I want you to hear this.

He carefully puts on a record and drops the needle. Buddy Holly's THAT'LL BE THE DAY echoes out.

They both listen.

SARAH
I like this.

FRANK
It's cool, right?

SARAH
Yeah.

They listen for another minute.

SARAH (cont'd)
I better be getting back to work.

FRANK
Yeah, course. I didn't mean to keep you.

SARAH
I'm glad you did. I'll talk to you soon?

FRANK
You bet.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Frank sits reading Love's Savage Secret, biting his lip as he turns the pages.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT

Frank climbs into bed and turns out the light.

The clock changes from 10:59 to 11:00. He lies in the darkness, staring up at the ceiling, waiting to get tired.

THAT'LL BE THE DAY, fades to a close.
BUDDY HOLLY (V.O.)

That'll be the day-ay-ay that I die.

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

The house is quiet and still against the suburban night.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT

Frank lies on his bed, staring at the ceiling.

It's 3:22.

He picks up the glass beside his bed, but it's empty. Getting up, he shrugs into his tattered bathrobe.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - UPSTAIRS HALL - NIGHT

Frank shuffles out of his bedroom and down the hall to the bathroom.

But as he passes the stairs, the CAMERA HOLDS on the darkness of the stairwell...

...and the darkness suddenly comes alive with motion: THREE COMMANDOS in hi-tech body armor, night-vision, and weaponry are right there.

From a small case, the leader takes out a full syringe.

The second reaches past him with a snoop scope linked to his heads up display: the hall is clear, the door at the far end swinging closed.

They move silently into the hall, listening to the WATER RUN: the leader with the syringe, the second empty-handed, ready for the take down, the third with a machine pistol.

The bathroom door stands ajar, spilling out bright light.

The commandos lift their night-vision as they move down the hall, past the guest room, closing in.

WHAM! They kick in the door revealing...

...the empty bathroom...

...as Frank steps out of the darkened guest room behind them in his robe and bare feet.

The three men whip around, startled...

WHAP! The commando closest to Frank goes down.
The second swings, but his legs are swept from under him, Frank's heel crushing his throat as he hits the floor.

The leader lunges with the syringe, but it's twisted out of his hand and suddenly in his arm... plunger pressed.

Staring at Frank, the commando's eyes flutter and drop.

Frank is left standing alone amidst the bodies. He isn't even breathing hard.

He crouches down, looking them over without emotion.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BASEMENT - NIGHT

Frank grabs a sledge hammer at the bottom of the stairs, steps to the middle of the room and swings.

CRACK! A thin layer of cement shatters.

Sweeping fragments away, he pulls out a buried locker.

Inside are bricks of cash and an array of passports.

Frank quickly stuffs a satchel. Then he unwraps an old 1911 model .45 semiautomatic and adds it as well.

Finally he grabs an old set of military dog tags and puts them in his pocket.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT

Frank finishes dressing, picks up the phone, and dials.

    OPERATOR (V.O.)
    May I have your social?

    FRANK
    Five four three, six six, two two nine one. Status RED.

He hangs up and heads out.

But the phone RINGS.

He stops, listening to it ECHOING EERILY through the house.

Finally he picks it up, holding it to his ear, waiting.

    VOICE (V.O.)
    Frank Moses?

Without answering, Frank moves beside the window, up against the wall, slightly pulling back the drapes and glancing out.
A white van is parked at an odd angle across the street, the back door open.

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

POV from inside the van: WE SEE the bit of curtain move.

CLICK: Suddenly it's the same view IN INFRARED, Frank's heat signature clear as day.

INT. FRANK'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Frank catches a glint of light from the van.

Exploding into motion, he drops the phone and runs all out down the hall as...

PFFT! PFFT! PFFT! Three 40mm grenades are launched into the house and...

BOOM! A fireball roars down the hall as...

Frank SMASHES through a second floor window...

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

...hits the roof, and spills into the yard in a shower of glass.

EXT. FRANK'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Stepping from the back of the van, a FOURTH COMMANDO slings his six-round grenade launcher and raises binoculars, surveying the destruction.

Catching a glimpse of motion he lowers the lenses...

...Frank is twenty feet away, charging straight at him...

The commando scrambles for his sidearm but... WHAM!

...he's tackled straight back into the van.

The rear doors are pulled closed, the engine starts, and the van pulls out, disappearing into the night.

EXT. BOSTON SUBURB - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

SUPERED TITLE: SOMERVILLE, MASSACHUSETTS

Boston rises in the distance behind this cute suburb by the Charles River.
EXT. SARAH'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Sarah heads up the walk with a guy a full head shorter than she is.

SARAH
I had a nice time tonight. Thank you.

FRED watches her unlock the door.

FRED
Aren't you going to invite me in?

SARAH
Sorry Fred. Say hi to your mom for me.

INT. SARAH'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Kicking off her shoes, Sarah slides out of her dress and pulls on an oversized shirt already laid out on a chair beside Love's Savage Secret.

Settling in, she cracks the book, but then thinks again and gets up.

Walking into the kitchen, she grabs a glass, ice, and a pour of bourbon. Then she shakes her head...

SARAH
Fred.

...and pours a little more.

Heading back to her book, she passes Frank. Shrieking, she jumps, the glass smashing on the floor.

Sarah grabs a vase to defend herself as Frank puts up his hands.

FRANK
Hey! Hey! It's Frank Moses.

SARAH
Stay back!

FRANK
It's me.

(beat)
You eat Tasty Cakes for lunch and your mom thinks you're gay.

She stares, worlds colliding, her fear turning to anger.
SARAH
Jesus Christ!

She protectively pulls down her shirt to cover more of herself, backing away.

SARAH (cont'd)
What the hell are you doing here?

Frank steps forward, hands still up.

FRANK
You have to get out of the house.

SARAH
What are you talking about?

FRANK
It's not safe here. It's my fault and I'll explain, but right now, I need you to come with me.

She stares at him nervously.

SARAH
I think you'd better leave.

He picks up a small suitcase from the floor.

SARAH (cont'd)
That's my bag.

FRANK
I packed for you.

She looks around, reeling.

SARAH
Did you... do my dishes?

Frank's clearly guilty.

Pulling it together, she puts on an authoritative tone.

SARAH
Frank. I always liked you. But I'm not about to...

Sarah freezes in fear as he draws his .45.

But he's staring past her out the window, where a car pulls up across the street.

FRANK
Right now, out the back.
SARAH
I'm not going anywhere!

Frank's torn, feeling the seconds ticking by, not sure how to handle this.

FRANK
I was never a diplomat. I was in the CIA, and someone is trying to kill me. That means there's been surveillance. They've listened to our phone calls and they're going to come after you as leverage.

SARAH
I'm calling the police.

The car doors open and three men get out, crossing the street toward Sarah's.

INT. CAR - DRIVING - NIGHT

Frank's behind the wheel with Sarah's purse on his lap, going through it as he smoothly drives, tossing a nail file and her can of pepper spray out the window.

FRANK
This couldn't be more different from how I hoped to meet you, you know, if we ever even did meet.

He comes up with her cell phone and tosses it out too.

FRANK (cont'd)
But things happen and I think it's important to be flexible.

He pauses, taking a breath, knowing it's not going well, but really trying.

FRANK (cont'd)
You know what I mean?

Frank glances back for reassurance.

REVEAL Sarah, tied and gagged in the back seat, staring daggers at him.

EXT. BEST BET ROADSIDE MOTEL - DAWN - ESTABLISHING

As dawn breaks, Frank pulls into this quiet, anonymous ranch-style motel.
INT. MOTEL ROOM - DAWN

Sarah sits on the bed watching Frank warily as he unties her wrists then reaches for the tape on her mouth.

    FRANK
    Sorry.
    He RIPS it off.
    SARAH
    Ow!
    FRANK
    You want some water?

She looks at him, scared but in control.

    SARAH
    If you let me go right now, I won't press charges.
    FRANK
    I'm not kidnapping you.
    SARAH
    What do you think you just did!
    FRANK
    You were in danger.
    SARAH
    No I wasn't! Even if you aren't completely full of crap and people are after you, no one cares about me.
    FRANK
    They know I call you. They've listened.
    SARAH
    So what?

Frank can't quite look at her, embarrassed.

    SARAH (cont'd)
    What?
    FRANK (dying)
    They know... I like you.

She isn't sure how to respond.

    SARAH
    You hardly know me.
FRANK
I know you.

She looks away.

SARAH
If you're really CIA, why don't you just call them?

FRANK
I don't know how these guys found me.

(beat)
I have to see someone. I need you to stay here until I get back.

SARAH
You just want me to sit here?

FRANK
You'll be perfectly safe. No one knows where you are.

He picks up the tape and tears off a fresh piece. She looks at him in confusion and fear.

FRANK (cont'd)
I'll be back soon.

She realizes what's about to happen.

SARAH
No! You crazy kidnapping pervert sonofabitch. You can kiss my...

Frank tapes her mouth.

INT. EXPENSIVE HIGH RISE CONDO - HOME OFFICE - DAY

SUPERED TITLE: PHILADELPHIA

WILLIAM COOPER, 30s, sits at a desk, tearing open a manilla envelope with latex gloves.

He wears a conservative suit and tie, but his haircut and bearing are those of a soldier.

Pulling out several 8x10 black and white photos, he drops them on the desk: they're of a man and woman in a tryst.

BATHROOM

Cooper takes out a sheet of plastic with a dozen blonde hairs pressed onto it.
Lifting them one by one with tweezers, he places them on a brush, in the shower drain, in the dust on the floor.

As his phone VIBRATES, he checks the number and answers.

COOPER

Hey hon.

He takes out plastic sheets with individual fingerprints pressed into them.

Laying one on the corner of the mirror, he peels back the plastic, leaving the print.

COOPER (cont'd)

No I think I'll be on time tonight.

KITCHEN

Cooper walks past someone struggling to maintain his precarious tip-toe balance on a chair, his hands secured behind his back and his neck in a noose.

COOPER (cont'd)

Okay, well I'll talk to the boys about it when I get home.

BEDROOM

Cooper lays fingerprints on the left side of the bed and nightstand.

COOPER (cont'd)

I will. I promise.

KITCHEN

Cooper walks back in.

COOPER (cont'd)

Desperate, the MAN from the tryst photos tries to look down at Cooper while keeping balanced. He's 50s, heavyset but well groomed, wearing a suit that cost thousands.

MAN

(Eastern European accent)

Listen. I can make you rich.

Cooper ignores him, making a note on his PDA.

MAN (cont'd)

YOU DON'T IGNORE ME! DON'T YOU KNOW WHO I AM?

Cooper glances up with no reaction.
COOPER
Actually, I don't have the slightest idea.

He kicks the chair out from under him.

Legs dance wildly in the air behind Cooper as his phone buzzes again. He checks the text: "FRANKLIN SQ. 10 MIN."

The legs still. Cooper removes the padded restraints from the wrists of the dead man and heads out.

EXT. GREEN SPRINGS ASSISTED LIVING - DAY - ESTABLISHING

At least that's the sign. But there's no green. Just cracked pink stucco as far as the eye can see.

SUPERED TITLE: WASHINGTON, D.C.

INT. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY - DAY

JOE MATHESON sits in a wheelchair in his small one-room apartment, struggling to reach the rabbit ears of a tiny crap TV.

Joe's a man from another era - 90s and frail - but his white hair is neatly parted and slicked back, and he wears a three-piece suit with a gold chain and pocket-watch.

Smacking the side of the television, he shakes it, making a hell of a racket until...

NURSE
Is that thing acting up again?

Joe glances back and smiles at the cute NURSE in his doorway.

JOE
Yeah. Can you give it a shot Marna?

MARNIA
Of course.

He rolls out of her way and settles in to watch as she's forced to lean way over to reach the antennas.

MARNIA (cont'd)
I don't see why you don't move these lower.

He admires her ass.
JOE
Better picture. Try a little to the left.
(beat)
That's getting there.

REVEAL Frank stepping into the doorway, taking in the scene. He clears his throat.

Joe looks over as the nurse straightens up.

MARN
Well, I think that does it Mr. Matheson.

She walks out, placing a hand on Joe's arm as she passes.

MARN (cont'd)
See you later.

JOE
Thanks Marna.

Frank watches her go, marveling.

FRANK
You're unbelievable.

Joe grins devilishly, struggling to his feet and pulling Frank into a huge hug.

JOE
Your timing is terrible, Kid. I don't see you in forever and when you finally show, you're cutting into my action.

FRANK
Is that why you're always telling me not to come?

Frank helps him sit back down.

JOE
It's goddamned embarrassing you seeing me like this.

FRANK
Who do you think you're talking to, Joe?

JOE
I never thought it would happen to me. Getting old. The things we did, I never thought I'd still be alive. Hell, I can't believe you're alive.
FRANK

Yeah, well, I retired.

JOE

You? Ha! Can't be. I remember recruiting this wet-behind-the-ears army punk like it was yesterday.

Frank can't help but smile.

JOE (cont'd)

What'd you do? Marry the girl next door?

Frank hesitates.

INSERT - INT. MOTEL ROOM - DAY

Sarah lies on the bed, mouth taped, hands and feet tied to the bed frame, furiously struggling to get loose.

RETURN TO SCENE

FRANK

Not exactly.

(beat)

I got a visit from a wet team last night.

JOE

(stunned)

Jesus. How'd that go?

FRANK

You have someone you trust in the Company who can run some IDs?

JOE

Sure. Got the prints?

Frank tosses him a squishy plastic bag.

Joe peers inside, disgusted.

JOE (cont'd)

You know there was a time this was a gentleman's game.

EXT. PHILADELPHIA - FRANKLIN SQUARE - DAY - ESTABLISHING

Moms walk babies, a pack of kids kicks around a soccer ball, and parents casually watch the action.
Cooper walks along the edge of the game, stopping beside a heavy, balding MAN, 50s, in a conservative suit holding a newspaper.

They both watch the soccer game.

MAN

We had an action go south. I need you to clean it up.

He hands Cooper the newspaper.

MAN (cont'd)

This is from the top. It's off the books. Total blackout. No logs. No records. Are we clear?

COOPER

Yes sir.

Cooper opens the newspaper, revealing a file. The first page is a long-lensed photograph of Frank watering his roses.

MAN

That's your primary target. There was a previous team. They are dead.

Cooper flips through the file, reading.

COOPER

He was CIA.

MAN

Is that a problem?

Cooper closes the file and tucks the paper under his arm.

COOPER

No.

EXT. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY - DAY

Joe and Frank sit on a small patio in the shade. Joe's on a cell phone taking notes.

JOE

Okay. You too. Thanks.

He hangs up.

JOE (cont'd)

It was a South African team. Very elite. They only worked for major governments.
FRANK

Christ.

Joe gives him a hard look.

JOE

What the hell did you do?

FRANK

Nothing! I'm out! I've been sitting on my ass killing roses.

JOE

One of them is also a print match to an NYPD crime scene. A woman was killed a couple months back.

He passes his notes to Frank, but nothing clicks.

FRANK

I don't know her.

(angry)
This doesn't make any sense. Who would come after me now?

JOE

Give me a day. I'll make some calls. See what I can find out.

FRANK

Just be careful. These guys are motivated.

JOE

(laughing)
Hell, Kid. I'm ninety years old with stage IV liver cancer. What do I have to be afraid of?

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY

This cramped high-tech nerve center is filled with computers, data and video feeds.

THOMAS and JACKSON, 30, cold and hard, stand with Cooper, sorting through the detritus of Frank's life spread out on tables: phone bills, mail, trash, receipts...

JACKSON

In six months this guy didn't make a single personal phone call. No credit cards, no voicemail, no computer, no TV.
COOPER
Run the ten pay phones closest to his house.

A phone RINGS and Thomas grabs it.

THOMAS
Yeah?
(to Cooper)
D.C. Metro's responding to a 911 call from one Sarah Ross.

EXT. BEST BET ROADSIDE MOTEL - DAY - ESTABLISHING

Three police cruisers and an ambulance are out front, lights flashing.

POLICE OFFICERS have cordoned off the area.

EXT. AMBULANCE - DAY

Sarah sits on the tailgate being checked out by a PARAMEDIC as a YOUNG COP stands protectively beside her. She's stressed out and shaken.

SARAH
I need to call my family.

PARAMEDIC
Just finishing up.

He strips the blood pressure cuff and the cop helps her up.

YOUNG COP
We'll get you a phone, but they want me to take you downtown for a statement. There's also a bunch of federal guys who want to talk to you.

SARAH
Is this going to take long?

He grins.

YOUNG COP
Definitely.

EXT. STREET - DAY

Sarah follows the cop around the corner to his cruiser.

VOICE (O.S.)
Hey!
An older, PLAINCLOTHES DETECTIVE, approaches.

PLAINCLOTHES DETECTIVE
Where are you taking her?

YOUNG COP
(confused)
What do you mean?

INSERT - EXT. PARKING STRUCTURE ROOFTOP - CONTINUOUS

Cooper looks down from the rooftop, watching the two cops through binoculars.

COOPER
(into headset)
Take him out.

RETURN TO SCENE

The detective's startled as, PFFT! PFFT! he takes two in the chest from a SILENCED PISTOL in the young cop's hand.

Stunned, Sarah backs away, but he grabs her, jabbing a hypodermic into her arm.

SARAH
No!

He pops the trunk of the cruiser, forcing her inside...

...but suddenly the cop's grabbed from behind.

CRUNCH! He falls...

...revealing Frank.

Sarah woozily stares at him and then the two dead bodies.

SARAH (cont'd)
You just killed that man?

FRANK
Yes.

He pulls open the syringe and tastes what's inside.

SARAH
Am I going to die?

FRANK
Just sleep. You probably need it.

He helps her into the passenger side of the cruiser.
SARAH
I am very tired.

Sliding behind the wheel he pulls out.

Sarah leans against him, watching the world slide by with heavy lids.

SARAH (cont'd)
Frank?

FRANK
Yes.

SARAH
This is just like in Love's Savage Secret, where the tennis pro saves her from the Jihadists.

...and she's out.

WHAM! A SEDAN SLAMS INTO THE SIDE OF FRANK'S CAR AT 40 MPH SENDING BOTH CARS SPINNING IN A SHOWER OF GLASS.

Opening his door for cover, Cooper's unloading rounds into Frank's police cruiser.

But as he whips out his magazine and reloads, Frank pops back up behind the wheel, peeling out in shriek of burning rubber and twisted metal.

Cooper tracks the cruiser, FIRING until it disappears around a corner.

INT. POLICE CRUISER - CONTINUOUS

Driving with one hand, Frank's on the radio.

FRANK
Shots fired! Officer down! 8th and Douglas! Suspect is a white male, 30's, dark suit, white shirt...

INT. SEDAN - CONTINUOUS

Back in the car, Cooper punches it, peeling around the corner after Frank, accelerating fast, but then abruptly SCREECHING to a stop.

Frank's cruiser is parked on the street.

Jumping from his car, gun ready, Cooper approaches, angling around to see inside... it's empty.
Taking his time, Cooper surveys the scene: Frank's car hissing coolant; a dead-empty street of small businesses.

Whipping up his gun at motion, Cooper looks down his sights at a CLERK in the flower shop in front of him, staring at him in wide-eyed fear through the open door.

On both sides of Cooper, police cars turn onto the street, screeching to a halt 100 feet back and spilling out cops.

Cooper weighs his options. Then he puts down the gun and raises his hands.

INT. FLORIST SHOP - CONTINUOUS

Stepping into sight with Sarah unconscious in one arm, Frank moves his .45 from the clerk to cover Cooper.

The two men stare each other down.

FRANK
(to the clerk)
Out the back. Car keys. Now.

INT. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY - JOE'S ROOM - DAY

Joe Matheson's on the phone, worried, jotting something on a piece of paper.

JOE

He folds the paper and scrawls Frank's name on it.

Rolling to his dressing table, Joe straightens his tie, combs his hair back, and picks up his wallet and keys.

Behind him, the door to his room opens and two men in suits step inside, pulling the door shut.

Joe coldly eyes them in the mirror, slipping the paper into the dresser. One SUIT takes out a gun. The other picks up a pillow.

JOE
So it's like that then?

SUIT
Yeah. It's like that.

Joe nods, resigned.
INT. CAR - BROOKLYN - DAY

SUPERED TITLE: BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

Frank sits in an SUV parked in front of an apartment building, sipping coffee. Across the river are the skyscrapers of Manhattan.

Sarah stirs, waking in the passenger seat beside him.

FRANK
Hey.

She looks around, disoriented and panicky.

FRANK (cont'd)
Take it easy. You're okay.

Off balance, she tries to calm down.

SARAH
How...
(beat)
How long was I asleep?

FRANK
About six hours. Coffee?

She nervously looks him over and takes it.

SARAH
Thanks.
(beat)
Thanks for saving me.

He nods. She takes a sip.

FRANK
How'd you get free?

SARAH
I worked the headboard loose and burned through the rope with the heater's pilot light.

Frank's impressed.

SARAH (cont'd)
I'm sorry I didn't believe you.

FRANK
I'm sorry I tied you up.

A beat.

SARAH
Who's doing this?
FRANK
I don't know.

She's having trouble grasping it all.

SARAH
I'm supposed to have dinner with my parents tonight.

FRANK
You're not going to make it. And if you call them, they're going to get hurt. Do you understand?

She nods, unnerved by his intensity.

SARAH
What happens now?

FRANK
The men who came after me killed the daughter of a woman who lives in that building. I'm hoping we can figure out the connection.

She considers this.

SARAH
I guess you're going to be stuck with me for a while.

Frank looks at her in surprise.

FRANK
Yeah.

Sarah absently picks a piece of car safety glass out of her hair and looks questioningly at Frank.

He shrugs.

INT. NICE APARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Frank and Sarah stop at number 2D.

FRANK
One sec.

He opens his satchel and grabs the duct tape.

FRANK (cont'd)
Hold this.

Then he takes out a drug bottle and fills a syringe, tapping out the bubbles.
SARAH
What are you doing? I thought we were going to talk to her!

FRANK
We are. This'll just help.

SARAH
The woman lost her daughter!

She grabs the syringe.

SARAH (cont'd)
People are basically nice, Frank.

She knocks on the door. He looks at her sourly.

FRANK
That hasn't been my experience.

SARAH
I think maybe I should do the talking.

INT. APARTMENT - LIVING ROOM

Sarah and Frank sit on the sofa opposite MRS. CHAN, 60, who hands Sarah a photo of her smiling 30ish daughter.

MRS. CHAN
She gave me this picture the week before she died. It was the last time I saw her... The police said it was just a burglary.

Sarah puts a sympathetic hand on her arm.

SARAH
We don't know it was anything other than that. You said Stephanie was a reporter?

Mrs. Chan nods, choked up.

SARAH (cont'd)
Do you know what she was working on?

MRS. CHAN
No.

Sarah notices writing on the back of the photo: a cross followed by 1980 1745 126.

SARAH
What's this number?
MRS. CHAN
I don't know. It's Stephanie's writing. I tried dialing it. The police had no idea.

Frank stares at the numbers.

EXT. NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY - DAY - ESTABLISHING

INT. NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY - DAY

Frank and Sarah walk through the foyer.

FRANK
It's a dead drop. That code is a call number for a book.

SARAH
Call numbers start with letters.

FRANK
Library of Congress does. Harvard-Yenching is a system for Asian language books. 1980 is the number for Christian literature: the cross.

SARAH
How could you possibly know that?

FRANK
Wo zhu zai Zhongguo ji nian qian.

SARAH
Christ. You speak Chinese?

FRANK
I was there for a few years.

INT. NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY - STACKS - DAY

Studying call numbers, Frank pulls a book from the shelf, and opens it. Inside is a single sheet of paper: a typed list of almost twenty names.

SARAH
Unbelievable.

One of them is "FRANK MOSES."

SARAH (cont'd)
What is this?

FRANK
I don't know.
INT. NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY - COMPUTERS - DAY

Sarah sits at a terminal with the list between them.

SARAH
Hank Maestriano... died two weeks ago in a car crash. Daniel McGinty, heart attack last week. Aaron Burke... suicide four days ago.

FRANK
Jesus. It's a hit list.

Pulling out a cell phone, he quickly dials.

SARAH
This one guy is still alive, I think. Gabriel Loeb. He flies cargo planes.

FRANK
(Into phone)
Who is this?
(pause)
Marna? Where's Joe?

INTERCUT - INT. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY - CONTINUOUS

Joe's nurse MARNA stands shaken and stammering. Behind her, Joe's apartment is swarming with cops.

MARNA
Mr. Moses?

FRANK
What happened?

MARNA
Mr. Matheson has disappeared. There's... there's blood everywhere.

She silently breaks down.

DETECTIVE (O.S.)
Looks like two shooters...

Frank's reeling.

FRANK
No...

MARNA
They found a note with your name on it. He talked about you all the time. He loved you like a son.
FRANK
Marna. What did it say?

MARNA
It was just two words.
(beat)
The Company.

Frank hangs up, stunned. He's beside himself.

FRANK
Joe's dead.

She reaches out to him, but he gets up. He's cold with fury, stirred to the core of his being.

FRANK (cont'd)
Those bastards are going to pay.

SARAH
Who?

INT. CIA - LANGLEY VIRGINIA - DAY

SUPERED TITLE: CIA HEADQUARTERS, LANGLEY, VA

Striding across the seal of the Central Intelligence Agency set into the polished marble floor...

...is Cooper.

INT. CIA - SECURE RECORDS DEPOSITORY - DAY

Cooper stands with Frank's file across from a RESEARCH CLERK at a computer.

COOPER
This man is NOT a retired Asian block analyst who's been out of the field for thirty years.

RESEARCH CLERK
That's what it says.

INT. CIA - VAULT - DAY

Two guards check Cooper's paperwork, then nod to an old RECORDS KEEPER.

The old man dials in a combination and the guards swing open a huge steel door, revealing a cavernous file room.
RECORDS KEEPER
These records have never been computerized. They never will be.

EXT. DULLES INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - DAY

SUPERED TITLE: DULLES INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Frank moves through the throngs of people exiting the terminal, accidentally bumping into a woman in the crowd.

FRANK

Excuse me.

Pressing on, he flips through the pocketbook of the woman he just bumped.

Reaching Sarah in line at the ticket counter, he hands her a driver's license that looks remarkably like her.

FRANK (cont'd)

Cynthia Bolt. Memorize the date of birth.

SARAH

Will you tell me where we're going now?

FRANK

To see Marvin.

Confused, Sarah takes out the list, finding the name.

SARAH

Marvin Frye?

FRANK

He's the only name on that list I know. We worked together before he sectioned out. He knows things.

SARAH

Frank, he died two years ago in a fire.

FRANK

He's died before.

SARAH

What does that mean?

FRANK

Marvin's... peculiar. Extremely paranoid and dangerous. He's not like other people.
SARAH
You’re not like other people.

Frank considers. It's a fair point.

FRANK
Right. Well, Marvin's less like other people.

A TICKET AGENT waves them over.

TICKET AGENT
I'm sorry things are so slow, our computers are down. Someone spilled coffee on the server.

Frank takes the last sip of a jumbo java.

FRANK
No kidding.

INT. CIA - OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY

Cooper drops a six-inch-thick stack of paper stamped "TOP-SECRET" onto the table.

COOPER
Frank Moses's real file.

Thomas flips it open.

Page after page has been blacked out, line by line.

JACKSON
Is this a joke?

They finally get to bits of text here and there:
"VIETNAM... MOSCOW... BEIRUT... IRAN... NICARAGUA."

COOPER
This guy's got to be one of the best black ops agent we ever had. He's offed drug-lords, terrorists, heads of state. He's toppled governments.

"REGIME CHANGE... TERMINATED... ELIMINATED..."

JACKSON
Jesus.

An ALARM from one of the computers sends Thomas back to check his system.
THOMAS
I've got a ticket to Rio on Sarah Ross's credit card. They've been in the air three hours.

COOPER
Three hours?

THOMAS
It looks like someone um... destroyed the airline's airport server.

Cooper digests this, pissed.

JACKSON
He's running.

COOPER
He's not running.

THOMAS
He knows we're going to be hard pressed to have someone there before him.

COOPER
Does this look like the file of someone who's going to rabbit? It's a dodge.
(beat)
I get this guy. He's good. But he's old school. Cloak and dagger crap. He hardly knows how to use a computer.

THOMAS
He knows how to wreck one.

Cooper shoots him a hard look, thinking it over.

COOPER
If we hurt the woman's parents, do you think it will draw him out?

This catches Thomas off guard.

THOMAS
I... don't know.

COOPER
Put them under surveillance.

EXT. SAN DIEGO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - DAY - ESTABLISHING

SUPERED TITLE:  SAN DIEGO
Frank and Sarah exit a terminal.

SARAH
Car rental?

FRANK
Long term parking.

EXT. LONG TERM PARKING - DAY
Frank and Sarah step into the street in the "LONG TERM PARKING" lot.

A GUY in a JEEP screeches to a halt and HONKS.

GUY
Move it!

SARAH
We're in a crosswalk!

The guy leans on his HORN and REVS his engine.

Sarah jumps out of the way, but Frank just stands there, looking over the Jeep and its mullet-sporting driver.

GUY
Chop chop, Grandpa!

Frank steps to the driver's side window.

GUY (cont'd)
What? You wanna go?

FRANK
Is this thing 4-wheel drive?

GUY
Hell yeah.

INSERT
Frank slams the trunk of a parked car on the duct-taped guy, climbs into the JEEP, smiles at Sarah and pulls out.

EXT. BORDER CROSSING - DRIVING - DAY
Heading south, Frank and Sarah are waved through to Mexico.

EXT. DIRT ROAD - DAY
Bouncing along this dirt road with the sun setting behind them, it feels a million miles from anywhere.
Up ahead, a walled compound rises out of the desert mesa.

FRANK
When we get there, don't make any sudden movements. Don't ask to use a phone. In fact, don't even talk about phones. Or satellites.

Sarah stares at him.

SARAH
You're serious?

FRANK
Yeah, why?

Driving up to the front gate, they pull to a stop.

FRANK (cont'd)
(calling out)
Hello?

A little Mexican kid appears, pulling open the gate and excitedly waving them into the courtyard.

Frank pulls forward...

...and suddenly the ground gives way and the entire Jeep collapses into a pit trap.

Frank's instantly out the roof of the car, jumping clear...

...but as he hits the ground a FIGURE IN DESERT CAMO bursts from a spider hole, leveling an assault rifle at Frank's head, screaming...

MARVIN WHO ARE YOU?

FRANK
Jesus, Marvin! It's Frank!

MARVIN
WHY ARE YOU TRYING TO KILL ME?

FRANK
I'm not!

MARVIN
You are!

As Marvin's finger tightens on the trigger Frank lashes out, pulling the barrel past him and the fight is on.

Marvin throws two quick punches, connecting hard, but Frank counters, sweeping a leg, and they land in a heap with Frank's .45 in Marvin's face.
FRANK
WHY DO YOU THINK I AM TRYING TO KILL YOU?

MARVIN
Because the last time we met, I tried to kill you.

Frank considers.

FRANK
That was a long time ago.

MARVIN
You sure? Some people hold onto a thing like that.

FRANK
I am NOT trying to kill you!

Marvin thinks it over and smiles.

MARVIN
Okay.

FRANK
So get your knife out of my balls!

REVEAL Marvin has a blade pressed to Frank's crotch. They slowly lower their weapons.

Marvin helps Frank up, dusting him off. He's older than Frank, weathered, with wild hair and bright eyes.

Reaching into the pit, Frank helps Sarah out of the car.

FRANK (cont'd)
Sarah, this is Marvin Frye. Marvin, she's okay. I promise.

SARAH
Hello.

Marvin eyes her with suspicion, then abruptly turns and starts out the front gate, walking into the desert.

MARVIN
Come on. I'll show you the house.

Frank glances back at the beautiful hacienda behind them.

FRANK
What's that?

Marvin doesn't even turn around.
INT. BUNKER - DAY

A door in the ceiling opens and harsh sunlight breaks the darkness, revealing stairs running down cast concrete walls.

Marvin, Sarah and Frank make their way into the utilitarian bunker, past barrels of water and fuel, MREs and dry goods.

MARVIN
Why do you live in a bunker when you have that other place?

MARVIN
I moved out last year after that helicopter flew by.
(leaning close)
I could feel their eyes on me, wet, like peaches.

Sarah glances wide-eyed at Frank, but he waves her off with a "don't go there" gesture.

Marvin leads them into the "living room," smiling genially.

MARVIN (cont'd)
So let me see this list.

Frank hands it over as Sarah glances around uneasily at the ratty chairs and dozens of racks of firearms, crates of C-4, grenade launchers, and Stinger missiles.

FRANK
Everyone on it's dead except for us and one other guy. I can't figure out the connection.

Marvin paces as he studies the list, growing more and more agitated.

MARVIN
I always told you, Frank, you can't trust the system. You can't be a part of it, because then, the minute they flip the switch, you're done. The satellites, man, the cell phones, the chips, the net...

Marvin drifts off, staring at nothing.

Frank and Sarah exchange a look worried look.

FRANK
Marvin.
MARVIN

What?

FRANK

The list. I need your help.

Marvin looks at him, then back at the list, completely unaware of any break in continuity.

MARVIN

Let me check the files.

INT. BUNKER - FILE ROOM - DAY

A steel door CREAKS open revealing a room that looks like the physical embodiment of a madman's mind.

Towers of papers, clippings, scrawled notes, and typed summaries fill the room, floor to ceiling, flagged with color codes and numbers in some insane indexing system.

FRANK

It's gotten bigger.

MARVIN

This may take a minute.

INT. BUNKER - LIVING ROOM - DAY

Frank walks back in. Sarah chases after him, eyeing the aluminum foil taped to the bunker's ceiling.

SARAH

(whisper)
Frank. This guy's insane!

FRANK

I told you: he sectioned out.

SARAH

How am I supposed to know what that means?

FRANK

Trust me, Marvin's the guy you want watching your back when everything goes to hell.

SARAH

He said he tried to kill you!

FRANK

I always felt bad about that.
SARAH

What?

FRANK

He thought he was the subject of a secret government mind control experiment. I told him he was nuts. He thought I was in on it and tried to kill me.

SARAH

Jesus.

FRANK

Yeah, but later I found out they were actually dosing him with LSD for a decade.

Marvin walks back in with a stack of papers, startling Sarah.

MARVIN

Afghanistan. Fall of '81 near Ghazni. At least four of these guys were there, not including us.

Frank thinks back, remembering. He looks at Marvin.

SARAH

What was it?

FRANK (hesitates)

We were way out in the sticks and got called to meet this ISA Captain.

MARVIN

McGinty. He's on the list.

EXT. AFGHAN VILLAGE - OLD 16MM FOOTAGE - DAY

Two Mujahideen fighters walk along a rocky path into a narrow valley.

On closer view, we see it's Frank and Marvin. They stop and stare, sickened.

MARVIN

Holy Christ.

FRANK (V.O.)

It was a village.

Flies BUZZ obscenely.

FRANK (V.O.) (cont'd)
There were no military targets there. It was a massacre.

Marvin examines a spent shell and tosses it to Frank. They exchange a concerned look.

Stepping over bodies, they approach Special Forces CAPTAIN McGINTY waiting for them beside a CIVILIAN, 30s, who incongruously wears a short-sleeved button-down.

MARVIN
What the hell happened here?

But the civilian steps in front of him.

CIVILIAN
Your orders are to make this disappear. Bury the bodies. Burn everything else. Pick up every piece of American brass. This never happened.

Frank just stares at the carnage.

INT. BUNKER - LIVING ROOM - DAY

Frank stares at Marvin.

FRANK
You think everyone on this list was involved?

Marvin shrugs, flipping through military records.

SARAH
Even if there was some massacre, why do they want to kill you now?

MARVIN
You sure it's the CIA?

Frank nods.

Marvin paces, getting more and more worked up.

MARVIN (cont'd)
Dammit. DAMMIT!
(beat)
You know what's WRONG with this government -- with these Patriot Act wiretapping, preemptive war (more) starting, extreme renditioning, fear-mongering War on Terror bastards?
MARVIN (cont'd)

FRANK
They're trying to kill us?

MARVIN
Exactly!

A beat as Frank waits for more.

FRANK
It's why we're here, Marvin.

MARVIN
Well we've got to do something.
(beat)
Who else on this list is still alive?

SARAH
Gabriel Loeb.

MARVIN
Lock and load, baby! It's on!

EXT. BUS STATION - DAY

Loud cars, thick pollution, and crowds of locals selling trinkets to crowds of American tourists fill the street.

SUPERED TITLE: JUAREZ, MEXICO

Frank and Marvin sit in the shade, eating popsicles and watching Sarah talk on a pay phone across the street.

MARVIN
(agitated)
What if they've tapped every data source that exists on this Loeb guy and are backtracing every connection that comes in on those sources and somehow filter those millions of calls and know it's us and then tag us with a chemical marker, or put a satellite on us, or fry us with Y-rays?

Frank thinks it over.

FRANK
Even for you that's pretty paranoid.
MARVIN

I guess.

Marvin glances up at the sky, then pulls out a tattered napkin and makes some urgent notes.

FRANK

What are you doing?

MARVIN

(defensive)

Nothing.

Sarah hangs up and heads over.

MARVIN (cont'd)

What's with the girl, anyway?

FRANK

I like her.

MARVIN

No seriously. What's the angle?

Frank lets it go as Sarah walks up.

SARAH

Loeb is coming into San Antonio. We can meet him at the Air Freight terminal. It's his first return to the country in four weeks.

Marvin looks at Frank.

MARVIN

How do you want to cross the border?

FRANK

Discreetly.

EXT. DOWNTOWN SAN ANTONIO - BUS TERMINAL - DAY

SUPERED TITLE:  SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

A group of noisy SENIOR TOURISTS carrying tons of cheap Juarez tourist crap disembark from a tour bus.

Among them are Frank, wearing a serape, Sarah with a pig piñata, and Marvin sporting a sombrero.

A drunk OLD LADY swigs from a beer, singing at Marvin...

OLD LADY

La cucaracha, la cucaracha, ya no puede caminar...
MARVIN
Next time lets just hijack someone or blow something up.

SARAH
Next time I get the serape.

FRANK
I always get the serape.

MARVIN
He does.

Walking away, Frank and Sarah head to a taxi stand and look around for a cab.

WOMAN'S VOICE (O.S.)
Oh no! Oh God! Please don't...

Frank and Sarah spin, stunned to see...

Marvin, holding a gun to the head of a BUSINESSWOMAN, dragging her into an alley.

EXT. ALLEY - CONTINUOUS - DAY

MARVIN WHO DO YOU WORK FOR?

BUSINESSWOMAN
(terrified)
Coldwell Banker! I'm a real estate agent! Just take the money. Please don't hurt me!

Furious at the lie, Marvin cocks the pistol, putting it to her eye, sending the woman erupting into tears as Frank and Sarah burst around the corner.

SARAH
Hey!

FRANK
Marvin! What are you...

MARVIN
SHE'S ONE OF THEM!

FRANK
One of who?

MARVIN
SHE WAS FOLLOWING US, MAN! She's got a camera hidden in her purse.
(matter of fact)
We have to kill her.
WOMAN
   (sobbing)
   No... please...

Marvin holds up his left hand to block the splatter...

SARAH
   Frank!

FRANK
   Just hold on!

He grabs the woman's purse and dumps the contents onto the ground: there's a wallet, cosmetics, a cell phone.

Frank rips the purse apart: there's nothing.

FRANK (cont'd)
   (annoyed)
   Where's the camera, Marvin?

Marvin hesitates, suddenly unsure.

MARVIN
   She was... following us.

Frank pushes down the barrel of Marvin's gun and snaps the woman's cell phone in half.

FRANK
   (to the woman)
   Go.

She runs off. Frank gives Marvin a hard look.

FRANK (cont'd)
   Go get us a car. And don't kill anyone.

EXT. AIR CARGO TERMINAL - DAY

Sarah and Frank watch a 747 cargo jet pull to a stop on the tarmac and power down.

Marvin's in the background with the piñata, absentmindedly scratching it behind the ears.

Sarah's quiet. Angry.

FRANK
   Are you upset?

SARAH
   "She's got a camera hidden in her purse. We have to kill her." Are you kidding me?
FRANK
Everyone makes mistakes.

He stands, cutting off Sarah's retort as three PILOTS enter the terminal.

FRANK (cont'd)
Gabriel Loeb?

The oldest pilot looks over. He's Frank's age with that classic ex-military look: tight haircut, thin, good shape.

The other two pilots pause as well, but Gabriel nods to them to go on ahead.

FRANK (cont'd)
You have a minute?

GABRIEL
(Texas twang)
What's this about?

FRANK

There's a tense beat.

GABRIEL
I can't talk to you.

He pushes past, but Marvin steps in front of him.

In a flash, Gabriel has a knife in his hand.

Marvin and Frank both draw guns.

Gabriel smiles.

GABRIEL (cont'd)
Pair beats ace.

INT. AIR CARGO OFFICE - DAY

They walk Gabriel into this second story windowed office looking out over the airfield. Marvin circles the room, looking out the windows.

GABRIEL
You fellas hear the one about what the West Texas Jew-boy twice-decorated Marine pilot said to the Chinese New York Times reporter?

FRANK
What?
GABRIEL
Nothing! I didn't tell her a damned thing!

Frank looks at him coldly.

FRANK
She's dead. And everyone on her list is dead except for you, me, and him. The CIA has targeted everyone who was there.

Gabriel's stunned.

GABRIEL
Oh Christ.

Frank stares at him realizing...

FRANK
You know why...

Gabriel sits down heavily, unable to look at him.

FRANK (cont'd)
Tell me.

He glances up with fear and resignation.

GABRIEL
They had me fly this guy out there from the gulf. Middle of the night. Hairy little airstrip in the middle of nowhere. He picked up a package and we flew back out.

FRANK
Who was the guy?

Over by the windows, Marvin starts MUTTERING as he fidgets with his tattered napkin. Sarah glances over nervously.

GABRIEL
CIA. Dorky little spook in short sleeves straight out of some office. The whole thing was super hush hush.

FRANK
What about the package?

MARVIN (O.S.)
Frank! Frank! Frank!

FRANK
(annoyed)
What?
Marvin runs over, pointing out the window.

MARVIN
A helicopter!

SARAH
We're at an airport for Christ's sake.

MARVIN
Two four seven seven one. It's following us. I write down all the numbers, see?

Frank stares at Marvin, then looks at the tattered napkin, filled with dozens of rows of tiny, smeared numbers.

He squints at the chopper then back at the napkin.

FRANK
That's a four.

MARVIN
It's a seven!

FRANK
Who makes a seven like that?

GABRIEL
Let me see it.

Suddenly the window SPIDERWEBS.

Sarah looks around, startled.

SARAH
Whoa! What was...?

She realizes Frank, Marvin and Gabriel are on the floor. Frank pulls her down as...

WHUMP! A bullet hits the wall where she was standing.

Gabriel lies motionless, blood on his shirt.

SARAH (cont'd)
Oh my God!

Frank checks him. Dead.

MARVIN
I knew we shouldn't have used that phone!

FRANK Shut up, Marvin!
INT. CIA - OPERATIONS CENTER - CONTINUOUS

Cooper listens in on a comm set as he watches a LONG-LENS VIDEO FEED of the unfolding action with Thomas and Jackson.

RADIO VOICE (V.O.)
One target down. I have no visual.

COOPER
Fire for effect.

INSERT VIDEO FEED

Gunfire FLASH FRAMES the SILENT footage as the shooter unloads, bullets chewing up the windows of the building.

Frank runs low and fast through the air cargo office, dragging Sarah after him as she holds onto the piñata.

RETURN TO SCENE

THOMAS
Targets exiting south side.

EXT. WAREHOUSE - DAY

Frank, Sarah and Marvin burst into this warehouse alley.

Suddenly someone steps around the corner up ahead with an assault rifle, firing.

It's the "businesswoman" Marvin grabbed earlier.

They dive behind a dumpster, bullets SLAMMING all around.

BUSINESSWOMAN (O.S.)
I'm going to fuck you up, old man!

Marvin gives Frank a look.

MARVIN
Can I kill her now?

Together as one, they swing around opposite sides of the dumpster to fire...

But she's gone.

FRANK Move!

Marvin covers the rear as Frank pushes Sarah up the alley.
EXT. WAREHOUSE ALLEY - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Suddenly their flight is interrupted as BULLETS RAIN DOWN from a ROOFTOP SHOOTER, sending all three diving for cover behind a scissor lift.

    FRANK
    (re: piñata)
    Give me the pig.

Sarah hands it over and... WHACK! Frank punches in the side, pulling out extra magazines.

Marvin reaches in, coming up with a machine pistol.

    MARVIN
    Old man? I'm in my prime!

Frank scoffs.

Pissed, Marvin jacks a cartridge out of his gun, catches it in the air and holds it out.

    MARVIN (cont'd)
    Bet you can't take this bullet out of my hand.

More bullets SLAM around them.

    FRANK
    Not now, Marvin!

    MARVIN
    Bet you can't.

Quick as a flash, Sarah grabs the bullet.

    SARAH
    Can we go now!

Marvin is stunned.

    MARVIN
    WAIT! I wasn't ready. Do it again.

Under a barrage of lead, Frank leans around the scissor lift, takes his time, and fires a single shot, ending the incoming fire.

Suddenly BLAM BLAM BLAM... bullets fly out of the wall, beside them, just missing.

Stunned, Frank and Marvin FIRE BACK THROUGH THE WALL.

    VOICE (O.S.)
    Aaaagh!
FRANK
How the hell...?

MARVIN
Satellites.

He looks up at the sky and flips it off.

INT. CIA - OPERATIONS CENTER - CONTINUOUS

Cooper watches the big screen which has up a satellite picture of the area with red thermal signatures of the people on the ground, including Marvin and his finger.

THOMAS
Two men down.

Jackson sees something on screen.

JACKSON
Hold on, this is going to be good.

EXT. WAREHOUSE ALLEY - DAY - CONTINUOUS

At the far end of the alley, the "businesswoman" steps around the corner with a shoulder-mounted rocket.

SARAH
That's not good.

Frank grabs her, running all-out down the alley.

FFFSST! KABOOM! The scissor-lift explodes like a toy.

Frank and Sarah are thrown to the ground by the blast.

Reloading, the woman levels the launcher again at the prone figures.

But suddenly Marvin steps from the burning debris, standing his ground, facing her down like a gunfighter.

The woman's finger tightens on the trigger...

And in a single clean motion, Marvin raises his pistol and fires.

KA-BOOOM! A massive explosion rocks the alley as his bullet detonates the rocket.

As debris rains down on Frank and Sarah, a figure appears above them. It's Marvin, reaching down to help them up.

MARVIN
Old man, my ass.
INT. CIA - OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY

Everyone stares at the big screen, washed out by the thermals and smoke.

JACKSON
I can't see anything.

COOPER
Get someone in there. I want to see bodies.

EXT. AIRPORT SERVICE ROAD - DAY

A food service truck drives away from the airport as a string of emergency vehicles speeds the other direction.

EXT. FOOD SERVICE TRUCK - RURAL HIGHWAY - DUSK

Marvin sleeps in the cab as Frank stands with Sarah at the side of the road, holding back her hair as she throws up in the tall grass.

FRANK
I told you excitement was overrated.
(beat)
You okay?

She nods, then hurls again.

FRANK (cont'd)
It happens to everybody in the beginning.

Frank looks over at Marvin who cracks one eye and taps his watch impatiently.

Frank shrugs helplessly.

Finally Sarah straightens up.

SARAH
You sure know how to show a girl a good time. Are all your first dates like this?

Frank's a deer in the headlights.

FRANK
I uh... haven't dated much.

SARAH
I don't believe it.
INT. AMTRAK TRAIN - NIGHT

Frank sits beside Marvin, who chuckles to himself as they roll through the night.

FRANK
What's that?

MARVIN
(mimicking Frank)
I uh... haven't dated much.

Frank glares at him.

FRANK
Don't make me shoot you.

Marvin is positively gleeful.

MARVIN
It's okay, man. She likes you.

FRANK
You think?

MARVIN
Notice how she's sticking around. Women don't do that if they don't like you.

FRANK
She doesn't have a lot of choice.

MARVIN
Sure she does.

Frank glances up at the far end of the car, watching Sarah enter and make her way towards them.

MARVIN (cont'd)
They know we know about the list now. They're going to keep coming.

Frank considers.

FRANK
There's only one way we're going to find out what this is really about.

Marvin weighs it.

MARVIN
It's impossible. We'll get killed for sure.
FRANK
So you're in?

MARVIN
Of course I'm in. I was just saying.

Arriving beside Frank and Marvin, Sarah hands out candy to the fellas. She looks between them.

SARAH
What?

EXT. WASHINGTON D.C. - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

SUPERED TITLE: WASHINGTON, D.C.

INT. CAR - DRIVING - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Frank's behind the wheel, Sarah's in front, and Marvin's in back as they roll past the mall.

FRANK
If we're going to pull this off, we're going to need help.

SARAH
Pull what off?

Frank stops across from a large compound. Marvin freaks.

MARVIN
No way! Not them!

SARAH
Who?

Marvin jumps out of the car. Resigned, Frank gets out. Sarah follows and sees the sign: RUSSIAN FEDERATION EMBASSY.

MARVIN
Godless bastards!

He runs off down the street.

SARAH
What's happening?

FRANK
Marvin tends to be ruled by his emotions, but sometimes you need to think outside the box.

SARAH
You're not really going in there?
Frank takes out his .45 and the dog tags he retrieved from his basement.

    FRANK
    Hold these.
    (beat)
    In case I don't come back.

She stares at him stunned.

Frank presses them into her hands.

For a long moment neither of them moves. Then Frank turns away, starting up the street.

    SARAH (O.S.)
    Hey.

He turns back and she's right there.

Reaching up on tiptoes, she gives him a kiss on the cheek.

    SARAH (cont'd)
    Be careful.

He looks at her for a long beat, then turns, walking past the main gates, stopping at an unmarked steel door.

Pressing an intercom button, he looks up at the camera.

    FRANK
    Tell Ivan Siderov that Frank Moses is here to see him.

There's no response.

Up the street, Sarah stands in the shadows watching.

Suddenly the door bursts open and four soldiers are leveling AK-47s at Frank.

They expertly force him to kneel, pat him down, then roughly drag him inside.

The last soldier stands in the doorway, rifle aimed at Sarah. She stands frozen, unable to breathe...

...and then he's gone.

INT. RUSSIAN EMBASSY - NIGHT

IVAN SIDEROV, a rumpled old man, sits behind a large desk wearing a permanent expression of Russian pain and dissatisfaction, along with an expensively tailored suit that still manages to look like it doesn't fit.
Cleaning his nails, he doesn't even look up as Frank is dragged into the room and stuffed into a chair across from him.

IVAN

Leave us.

The soldiers look at him in surprise.

He doesn't repeat himself, but raises his eyes to them and they file out.

IVAN (cont'd)

(heavy Russian accent)

I have to say, this is not something I expected when I got up this morning.

Ivan pulls a vodka bottle from a drawer, pours two, and slides one across the desk. He raises his glass.

IVAN (cont'd)

It is good to meet you. In person.

They clink and drink.

FRANK

Do you kind of want to shoot me?

Ivan smiles.

IVAN

Little bit. I used to dream about it. Like I dream about good coffee or sunshine during winter. But now, what's the point? You are retired, yes?

FRANK

Yes.

Ivan looks off.

IVAN

Still, I feel I owe you for killing Semyon.

FRANK

The Butcher?

IVAN

A great asset. Did you know he was my cousin?

FRANK

(a beat)

No.
(raising his glass)
To Semyon the Butcher.

Frank toasts and drinks. Then...

He's not actually dead.

Ivan stares at Frank.

I flipped him.

No...

Now he owns a bunch of 7-11s.

Ivan looks at him, stunned. Frank smiles.

Bastard.

Yeah, well, I'm sure you've heard worse.

Ivan fills Frank's glass.

I pour you double.

Why's that?

Veronique: that girl in Paris in '81. She was mine.

Impossible.

Da!

No.

Yes!

He thinks it over.

Whatever she got, it was worth it.
They raise glasses and drink again. Ivan sits back.

IVAN
I miss the old days. We could swing at each other like men. Now it's economic leverage and political posturing. I haven't had someone killed in years.

Frank nods in sympathy.

FRANK
What can you do?

IVAN
And don't get me started on the puppies they send me to train now: too smart for their own good without a gram of sense among them.

Ivan fills the glasses again.

IVAN (cont'd)
So.

(beat)

I think that you are not here for the hospitality.

There's a pregnant beat.

FRANK
I'm going to break into the CIA. I need your complete security package on Langley: plans, schedules, cracks, IDs, all of it.

Ivan stares at him.

IVAN
Why would you possibly think I have that sort of information?

There's a tense beat.

Then they both chuckle.

IVAN (cont'd)
Why do this?

FRANK
Personal project. Like a hobby.

A beat.

IVAN
Have you tried gardening?
FRANK
Didn't work out.

IVAN
I can't stand it either. If it's not bugs, it's the damned fungus.

FRANK
You try soapy water?

IVAN
Does that work?

FRANK
So I hear.

EXT. RUSSIAN EMBASSY - NIGHT
Sarah paces back and forth in the shadows across the street from the main gate, alone, sick with worry. She starts towards the Embassy, but then stops, changes her mind, and doubles back.

FRANK (O.S.)
I told you everything was going to be all right.

She whips around as he appears from the shadows.

SARAH
No you didn't! You said, "Hold these in case I don't come back."

FRANK
So you were worried about me?

Now she's embarrassed. She punches him in the arm.

SARAH Jerk.

Frank smiles.

FRANK
Let's go find Marvin.

EXT. LANGLEY VIRGINIA - CIA HQ - ESTABLISHING - DAY
Nestled on lush grounds, the old CIA headquarters building stands flanked by the two new massive six-story buildings where thousands of people come to work each day.

The sprawling compound looks more like a college campus than the epicenter of American foreign intelligence.
EXT. CIA - DAY

A town car pulls up. Marvin gets out and opens the door for Frank and Sarah, who exit wearing suits and CIA badges. As the two of them walk toward one of the towers, Sarah looks like she's going to be sick.

SARAH
I can't do this.

FRANK
Just relax and smile. I'll get us inside, you'll just pull their files.

SARAH
I'm not a hacker.

FRANK
It's a closed system. The trick is getting to the terminal.

INT. LOBBY - DAY

Frank and Sarah enter and make their way through the huge four-story atrium, towards the high-security elevators. An armed guard looks them over. Sarah forces a smile.

SARAH
What makes you think the Russians wouldn't sell you down the river?

FRANK
Ivan and I come from a world where enemies can still have ethics. I guess you could say, I have faith.

SARAH Faith?

Frank hands Sarah a small case and punches the elevator button.

FRANK
Actually it's more like hope.

INT. HIGH-SECURITY ELEVATOR - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Stepping inside, Frank punches in a security code and the button for the 5th floor.

The door slides closed and the wall-mounted retinal scanner lights up as Sarah opens the case, removing a single gold contact lens, laser-etched with an elaborate pattern.
Frank bends close and she puts the contact...

    SARAH
    I dropped it.

Frank looks at her stunned.

    FRANK
    What?

    SARAH
    I dropped it!

    ELEVATOR (V.O.)
    Scan incomplete.

They both drop to the floor, frantically searching.

    FRANK Gently.

    SARAH Dammit...

    ELEVATOR (V.O.)
    Scan incomplete.

    FRANK
    I don't know how long...

An ALARM suddenly sounds.

    SARAH
    Oh God, oh God...

The doors roll open and THREE SECURITY OFFICERS stand ready, hands on their weapons, looking down at Frank and Sarah on all fours.

There's a seriously awkward beat.

    SARAH (cont'd)
    The General dropped his contact.

Frank looks at her in disbelief.

    SARAH (cont'd)
    (annoyed)
    Well? Aren't you going to give him a hand?

Frank watches stunned as the security officers quickly join them on all fours, searching the floor.

    SECURITY OFFICER
    Got it!
He holds up the contact to the light, looking closely...

...but Sarah snatches it.

SARAH

Here, sir.

Quickly cleaning it, she gently lays it in Frank's eye.

The lead security officer turns a key in the elevator, and Frank leans forward to have his eye scanned.

ELEVATOR

Scan complete.

The lights go green.

LEAD SECURITY OFFICER

Have a good day, sir.

Frank nods and the doors roll closed.

FRANK

I don't begin to know what to say about that.

INT. 5TH FLOOR - HALL - DAY

Frank leads Sarah to a heavy steel door with an elaborate electronic number pad/scanner beside it.

SARAH

Is this it?

Frank nods.

FRANK

Did you know these locks cost eighty-five thousand dollars each?

SARAH

No.

He pulls out a matt knife and cuts a hole in the drywall beside the door, then reaches in and opens the handle.

FRANK

God love forced low-bid government contracts.

He tapes a single sheet of paper over the hole in the wall: "SECURITY IS EVERYONE'S BUSINESS."

Pushing open the door reveals a small, high-tech room with a lone computer terminal.
INT. SECURE SERVER - DAY

Sarah sits at the computer with Frank behind her, watching her fly through files and directories.

SARAH
What do you think the punishment is for what we're doing?

FRANK
Depending on what they charge you with, either life in prison or death.

SARAH Awesome.

She brings up the profile for the killer dressed as a young cop who tried to grab her at the motel.

SARAH (cont'd)
There.

FRANK
Work the assignment tree back and see if you can find the executive.

A few keystrokes later, she brings up Cooper's photograph and profile.

FRANK (cont'd)
I want everything on this guy.

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Thomas stares at his computer, flipping out.

THOMAS
Someone's tripping flags in the system. They're all over our players!

Cooper's at his side in a second.

COOPER
Who is it?

Thomas looks from his screen in confusion...

THOMAS
It's internal. Directorate on five.

Cooper hustles across the room and grabs a phone.

COOPER
We have a breach on five.
INT. 5TH FLOOR - HALL - DAY

BOOM! SIX TACTICAL BADASSES in body armor burst into the secure server room leveling weapons. Sarah whips around...

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY - CONTINUOUS

BOOM! Frank kicks open the door, bursting inside.

Thomas makes it to his feet before his face is bounced into the desk and he hits the floor unconscious.

Frank looks at Cooper across the room, still on the phone.

FRANK
You.

Cooper stares. He almost laughs.

COOPER
Unbelievable.

Frank closes in on him.

FRANK
What did they pull out of Afghanistan?

COOPER
(incredulous)
You think you can just walk in here and everyone'll just roll over?

FRANK
Actually, I figured I'd have to beat it out of some snot-nosed button-pusher.

Frank swings on him, but Cooper blocks and counters.

In a flurry of fists, Frank is hit once and then again.

Face bloodied, he stumbles back, stunned. Cooper smiles.

COOPER
Not quite as fast as you once were?

Frank spits blood.

FRANK
Kordesky trained you?

COOPER
Yeah.
Cooper closes again, attacks, blocks, and delivers two more brutal body-blows...

...but suddenly Frank spins around him, catching an arm and slamming Cooper onto a desk, pinned.

FRANK
I taught Kordesky.

Frank brutally twists his arm, tighter.

COOPER
AAAAGH!

FRANK
Who ordered these hits?

Cooper glares back at him.

COOPER
Orders come, you execute. You of all people should know how it works.

CRACK! Frank breaks his arm.

COOPER (cont'd)

AAAAGH!

FRANK
You come after one of your own and you don't even ask why?

COOPER
It doesn't come to me unless it's been vetted all the way up the line. There's not a doubt in my mind you've earned what you've got coming.

Frank grabs his chin, cranking his neck to the edge of breaking.

FRANK
The minute you learned who I was you should have walked away.

Gasping, Cooper wrenches out a reply.

COOPER
Would you?

Suddenly wrenching to his left, Cooper slides off the desk, hitting the floor, catching Frank by surprise with a kick, knocking him down.

Jumping up, Cooper grabs a phone with his good arm, clobbering Frank...
...but Frank kicks him, catching Cooper in the gut, sending him flying backwards through the glass wall of his office.

Frank's up in a second, but Cooper's in his desk, coming up with a gun.

Frank ducks, running for the door as Cooper UNLOADS.

Rounds chew up the wall behind him...

... then slam into him, spilling Frank out the door.

Cooper races after, bursting into the hall...

But it's empty except for a spatter of blood.

INT. STAIRWELL - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Frank's hit in the shoulder and the side, in pain, forcing himself down the stairs.

Stepping into the 4th floor hall, he pulls the first fire alarm he sees.

As ALARMS RING, he presses forward through the rapidly filling corridor and catches a woman by the arm:

FRANK
Where's the server room?

WOMAN
End of the hall.
(seeing the blood)
My God...

But he's already in motion.

INT. SERVER ROOM - DAY

Rows of servers fill this clean room, but Frank ignores them, arriving at the "FIRE CONTROL ROOM" off to one side.

INT. FIRE CONTROL ROOM - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Opening the door reveals a small room filled with gas cylinders marked "HALON" surrounded by warning signs.

INT. 2ND FLOOR HALL - DAY

As ALARMS CONTINUE TO RING, Sarah is frog-marched by two tactical badasses down this hall, hands zip-cuffed behind her back.
Rounding a corner, they are suddenly right in front of Frank standing beside a Halon canister with a fire axe.

Frank takes a deep breath and swings, snapping the valve. PRESSURIZED GAS ERUPTS and suddenly Sarah and her escorts are writhing on the ground gasping for air that doesn't seem to be there.

Frank wades in, cuts Sarah's zip cuffs and picks her up.

INT. STAIRWELL - DAY

Frank drags Sarah up the stairs.

FRANK
Breathe out then in. You're fine.
Just breathe.

Gasping, she follows his directions, gaining control.

SARAH
You're bleeding!

FRANK
Do you have the download?

She pulls a memory stick from her bra.

INT. THIRD FLOOR - DAY - CONTINUOUS

They emerge into the open hall overlooking the four story atrium where ALARMS continue to RING.

Dozens of people fill the hall trying to figure out what's happening as emergency vehicles pull up out front.

Security is everywhere. They're screwed.

SARAH
What are we going to do?

Frank leads her forward to where he's stashed a second canister of Halon.

SARAH (cont'd)
What is that?

FRANK
It binds up oxygen in the air.

Kicking it over he gets it rolling and...

SMASH! The canister breaks through the glass panel under the railing, falls three stories and...
POOF!

Suddenly everyone is gasping and screaming, choking, flipping out.

She looks at him in horror.

FRANK (cont'd)
Relax. It's just uncomfortable; feels like nerve gas.

EXT. CIA - DAY - ESTABLISHING

Cooper stands outside the HQ buildings, scanning faces as people stream out, desperately searching for Frank.

But PULLING BACK reveals there are THOUSANDS of workers flooding from the buildings. It's hopeless.

EXT. VISITOR PARKING - DAY - CONTINUOUS

Frank and Sarah separate from the crowd, Frank leaning heavily on Sarah as they make their way towards the towncar at the back of the lot.

Marvin's behind the wheel, ramrod stiff, sunglasses on, staring straight ahead.

SARAH
Marvin, help me.

But Marvin doesn't move.

Getting closer, they see he's handcuffed to the steering wheel with a gun pressed to the back of his head.

FRANK
Hold up!

The back window rolls down revealing...

...JOE MATHESON. Frank can't believe it.

FRANK (cont'd)
Joe!

JOE
(nods at Marvin)
There's something wrong with this guy, Frank, you know, in the head.

Frank grins.
FRANK
Yeah. I know.
(beat)
You okay, Marvin?

MARVIN
I don't want to talk about it.

JOE
Help him in here, honey.

Sarah pulls open the door and settles Frank into the car beside Joe.

FRANK
I thought you were dead.

INSERT FLASHBACK - INT. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY - DAY
Joe kicks his wheelchair around to face the two killers. They're astonished to see he's got a 9mm semiautomatic in each hand.

RETURN TO SCENE

JOE
Nah. Just retired.
(to Marvin)
Start the car, nutjob.

Sarah closes the door and rounds the car heading for the front seat.

JOE (cont'd)
She's with you?

Frank nods.

JOE (cont'd)
Nice work.

Sarah slides in and Marvin pulls out.

INT. CIA - HALLWAY - DAY
DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS, GARY STEVENS, storms down the hall trailed by several AIDES and a SECURITY DETAIL.

He's the man from the park who gave Cooper his assignment, but now he seems overwhelmed to the point of breaking.

AIDE #1
They don't know how he did it yet.
We're in lockdown.
DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS

Are we safe?

AIDE #1
They don't believe he's still on site.

AIDE #2
(to Aide #1)
I have the Director of National Intelligence calling for the Director of Operations.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
I'll call back. Wait here.

Leaving the entourage, he pushes through a door into...

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY

Debris is strewn everywhere. Cooper, arm splinted, gets up to face Stevens.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
How the fuck did this happen? Do you understand the ramifications of this breach? How this makes us look? The attention this attracts?

COOPER
Sir...

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Shut up. You just got your high-tech ass handed to you by your target. A retiree with zero resources. A man deemed too old to work in the field.

Cooper's phone RINGS. He kills it.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS (cont'd)
I am NOT about to get hung out to dry. Do I need to get involved? Get someone else?

COOPER
No sir.

Cooper's phone RINGS again and is silenced.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
I want this guy dead. I don't care if it's messy. Take whatever assets you need and finish it.
He turns and leaves.

INT. HALLWAY - DAY

Cooper stalks down the hall, furious. His phone RINGS again and he picks up.

    COOPER
    Cooper.

    FRANK (V.O.)
    You must be talking to someone important.

Cooper goes cold.

    FRANK (V.O.) (cont'd)
    I was just calling to let you know there's a new list. And you're right at the top.

CLICK. The line goes dead.

INT. TOWN CAR - DRIVING - CONTINUOUS

Frank closes the phone.

    MARVIN
    Psyops! Hell yeah.

    JOE
    Both hands on the wheel, Nutjob.

Sarah turns to Joe.

    SARAH
    The bleeding won't stop. We need to get help.

Joe looks at Frank.

    FRANK
    I know a place.

EXT. EAGLE'S NEST INN - DAY - ESTABLISHING

They pull up outside this cute little B&B on the Maryland coast with gorgeous ocean views and a stunning garden.
INT. CAR - CONTINUOUS

FRANK
I'll go in alone, see if we can stay.

SARAH
Don't be ridiculous. I'll go.

Joe puts a hand on her arm.

SARAH (cont'd)
(realizing)
Is this a thing? This is a thing isn't it? Everybody knows but me?

FRANK
It'll be fine.

Frank and Marvin exchange a look.

MARVIN
You want a vest?

FRANK
Wouldn't make any difference.

INT. EAGLE'S NEST INN - DAY

Frank enters, the bell on the door JINGLING brightly.

The place is adorable.

VICTORIA sits in the dining room folding napkins. A little older than Frank, she's prim, proper, and beautiful.

She looks up, surprised. Then smiles.

VICTORIA
(English accent)
Frank Moses.

FRANK
Victoria.

VICTORIA
It's been a long time.

FRANK
Yeah.

There's a beat between them.

VICTORIA
Are you here to kill me?
FRANK
No. I need your help.

He slowly opens his jacket, revealing no weapons, but a lot of blood.

She sighs, possibly disappointed...

VICTORIA
Oh.

...and sets aside the HIGH CAPACITY MACHINE PISTOL she was concealing behind the stack of napkins.

VICTORIA (cont'd)
Come on in, then. And tell Marvin to stand down before he gets hurt.

Frank glances out the window where Marvin sits in her rose bushes covering the action.

FRANK
By the way, your roses are fabulous.

INT. SITTING ROOM - DAY

The others filter in and Joe and Victoria embrace.

VICTORIA
Joseph.

JOE
Victoria. You're lovely as ever.

VICTORIA
You old snake charmer.

Sarah looks between them all, a little lost.

SARAH
So. How do you all know each other?

JOE
Victoria was the best wet asset I ever worked with. A true artist with a PSG.

Sarah shoots Frank a questioning look.

FRANK
(aside)
Killer. Very dangerous.

Sarah smiles at Victoria, uneasy. She smiles back, warmly.
MARVIN
I'm gonna scout the perimeter.

VICTORIA
Just mind the daisies.

INT. KITCHEN - DAY - LATER

Frank and Victoria sit alone as she peers through reading glasses, expertly working on Frank's shoulder with forceps and a sponge.

VICTORIA
I'd better hurry this along or I'll be late with four o'clock tea.

Frank studies her, impressed.

FRANK
How did you do it?

VICTORIA
What?

FRANK
Make the transition? You have a beautiful place here. A nice quiet life. You seem so at ease.

He winces as Victoria extracts the bullet.

VICTORIA
I try. But it's not easy. Sometimes I get restless. (confessing) I still take the occasional contract on the side.

FRANK
You do?

VICTORIA
(hesitates, guilty) I can't seem to stop. I miss the rush. They retire us, but you can't just flip a switch and become someone else, you know.

She starts stitching up Frank's shoulder.

FRANK
I didn't know what to do with myself. All I ever had was work. (more)
FRANK (cont'd)
And suddenly there was so much time.
    (beat)
I've done so many terrible things.

VICTORIA
We did them for good reasons.

A beat.

FRANK
Maybe. I'm starting to wonder.

VICTORIA
Tell me about Sarah.

Frank looks uncomfortable: much more so then when she was pulling lead out of him.

FRANK
She makes me feel like maybe I could have a different life. Like normal people.

Victoria smiles.

VICTORIA
It's one of the reasons I've always been so fond of you, Francis: you're a romantic.

FRANK
What?

VICTORIA
Hard on the outside. Gooey on the inside.

FRANK
Get outta here.

VICTORIA
Gooey.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Marvin, Joe, Frank, Sarah and Victoria sit around the coffee table with papers and a laptop. Other guests chat quietly in the background.

SARAH
This is the reporter's list. This is the hit list we downloaded from the CIA.

    (more)
SARAH (cont'd)
They're the same except there's one name that's not on the hit list: Andrew Dunning.

JOE
Christ. He's CEO of Browning-Orvis.

FRANK Who?

JOE
The defense contractor. Very politically connected.

MARVIN
Let's pay him a visit.

Victoria pours more coffee.

VICTORIA
You know, business is a little slow right now...

Frank smiles wide.

INT. COOPER'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Cooper sits in his suburban living room, reading Frank's file as his wife, ELIZABETH, walks in, dressed for bed.

ELIZABETH
What are you working on?

COOPER
Just trying to figure someone out. My arm hurts too much to sleep anyway.

ELIZABETH
I hope you learned your lesson playing basketball with those marines.

Cooper gets up and gives her a kiss.

COOPER
Yes dear.

She swats him and he pushes her back towards their room.

COOPER (cont'd)
Come on, I'll tuck you in.

Halfway down the back hall, he pauses at a door, silently cracking it open.
He looks in on his two boys, asleep in a bunk bed, each wearing different superhero pajamas.

Cooper silently closes the door.

INT. EAGLE'S NEST INN - GUEST ROOM - NIGHT

Sarah stands on the balcony, looking out at the water.

In the room behind her, Frank's cleaning his .45, but she can feel his eyes on her.

SARAH
Penny for your thoughts?

FRANK
I was just wondering how you're holding up. I know it's a lot.

Sarah smiles.

SARAH
I've never been so scared in my life as today. But it was unbelievable. I'm okay.

He nods, then goes back to work reassembling the gun.

She watches him for a moment.

SARAH (cont'd)
Why don't you walk away? You could disappear, right?

Frank finishes what he's doing and puts the gun down.

FRANK
Hide and go set up somewhere else?

She nods.

FRANK (cont'd)
Dragging you along on this, I think about it. But letting this happen, then and now, I can't.

She comes inside, picking up the cot that has been wedged into the room and moving it along one wall.

SARAH
I think you should sleep in the bed tonight.
FRANK
Don't be silly.

SARAH
That's not what I meant.

FRANK
I don't understand.

SARAH
Come here and let me explain it to you.

Reaching out, she takes his shirt and pulls him into a kiss.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

SUPERED TITLE: DUNNING ESTATE, MARYLAND

This epic mansion sits behind gated walls, surrounded by tennis courts, a pool, a helicopter pad, guest houses, and rolling lawns from the woods down to the water.

EXT. WOODS - NIGHT
Frank sits with his back against a tree as Marvin checks it out with binoculars. They're both clad in black.

MARVIN
Rent-a-cops. Video. Infrared alarms. All the usual crap.

EXT. WOODS - SNIPER'S NEST - NIGHT
Sarah lies in the dirt beside Victoria who sets up a camo-draped rifle almost as tall as she is.

SARAH
Frank said you wanted me with you.

VICTORIA
He thought it would be safer and I thought it would be fun to have a little girl time; get to know each other, talk about the boys. Plus I wanted you to know that in all the years I've known Francis, I've never seen him like this, so if you break his heart, I'll kill you and bury your body in the woods.

Sarah looks at her, stunned. Victoria smiles.
EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - NIGHT

A security guard escorts Joe, in his wheelchair and three-piece suit, up to the main house.

INT. DUNNING'S HOUSE - STUDY - NIGHT

A butler leads the way into a sumptuous study: hardwood, heavy furniture, and leather.

JOE
Nice place. In fact, I'm not sure I've ever been in a room this nice.

ANDREW DUNNING, portly and rich, sits behind his desk, looking Joe over skeptically.

JOE (cont'd)
How big is that TV?

DUNNING
What can I do for you, Mr. Matheson, was it?

Joe grins.

JOE
We just have a few questions.

Suddenly Frank appears behind the startled butler, quickly zip-tying his hands.

Marvin appears in another doorway, hustling in three security guards, their hands zip-tied behind their backs.

FRANK
Put them with the others.

Dunning looks between them angrily as Frank cuffs him into his chair.

DUNNING
Who are you?

FRANK
You don't remember me?
(beat)
I remember you.
The man wearing a short sleeved civilian button-down steps towards young Frank and Marvin.

He's put on weight and lost hair, but the man is Dunning.

RETURN TO SCENE

FRANK

Tell us what happened in Afghanistan.

A beat as this registers.

DUNNING

You can't touch me. You have no idea what you're dealing with.

Frank glances at Marvin walking back in.

FRANK

We have any idea what we're dealing with?

MARVIN

Not really. Maybe a little.

FRANK

Can we touch him?

MARVIN

Definitely.

Frank starts unpacking a bag: blowtorch, drain cleaner, Vice Grips...

JOE

(to Dunning)

Did you know that Frank here wrote the CIA field manual on torture? The old one.

DUNNING

Wait. Hold on a minute...

Frank fires up the blowtorch.

FRANK

I like this one. Where'd you get it?

Dunning stares in fear.

MARVIN

Home Depot. Twelve bucks.
FRANK
No kidding.

Frank holds out the torch and Marvin puts a pair of Vice Grips in the flame.

DUNNING
PLEASE!

They glance over as though seeing Dunning for the first time.

DUNNING (cont'd)
I ran the Afghan operation.

FRANK
What did you take out of there?

DUNNING
It wasn't a what. It was a who...

INSERT - INT. C-130 - OLD 16MM FOOTAGE - NIGHT

YOUNG GABRIEL LOEB glances back out the cockpit door as Dunning drags aboard a YOUNG SOLDIER with a thousand yard stare, covered in blood and dirt.

DUNNING (V.O.)
We extracted a young Second Lieutenant. He was the son of then Senator, Henry Stanton.

RETURN TO SCENE

This quietly sinks in.

JOE
Robert Stanton.

FRANK
The Vice President of the United States?

Dunning nods.

MARVIN
Holy crap.

FRANK
He was responsible for what happened there?

DUNNING
That's what the New York Times reporter wanted to know.
FRANK
What did you tell her?

DUNNING
I said I didn't know anything about it.

FRANK
Then you called the Vice President.

DUNNING
(defensive)
Of course. Our families have been friends for years.

MARVIN
WHAT DID YOU THINK WAS GOING TO HAPPEN?

FRANK
He ordered everyone killed. Except you.

DUNNING
I didn't know that!

Victoria's voice interrupts, crackling over the radio.

VICTORIA (V.O.)
We have major activity on the perimeter. Somebody serious is setting up shop.

Dunning smiles at Frank, cocky once again.

DUNNING
You're finished. The Company's had me under surveillance since your little stunt over there.

EXT. WOODS - SNIPER'S NEST - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Victoria lies dead still, sighting through her scope as Sarah fidgets nervously.

SARAH
I don't see how you can be so calm.

Victoria smiles.

VICTORIA
So how did you two meet?

This isn't what she expected, but Sarah allows herself to be deflected.
SARAH
We just started talking. There was something about him...
(beat)
Of course, now I'm a fugitive, the CIA wants to kill me, and I'm hiding in a hole.

VICTORIA
I was in love once, with an agent.

SARAH
What happened?

VICTORIA
The relationship wasn't sanctioned.
When it came to light, my loyalty was questioned. I was told to kill him. It was a test.

She says it all so matter of factly. Sarah looks at her stunned.

SARAH
What did you do?

VICTORIA
I put three rounds in his chest.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - COMMAND POST - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

Heavily armed COMMANDOS in body armor and black continue to unload from FBI vans as the FBI COMMANDER wades through the deployment, finding Cooper and handing him a phone.

FBI COMMANDER
We're in position, sir. Perimeter's set. No one's getting out.

INT. DUNNING'S HOUSE - STUDY - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Marvin lies on the floor peering out a window.

JOE
How's it look?

MARVIN
Remember the Alamo?

VICTORIA (V.O.)
They have sniper positions on North,
West, and East sides.
(more)
VICTORIA (V.O.) (cont'd)
Ground personnel in force out front and backup in the rear. I'd estimate sixty total.

The phone on the desk begins to RING.
Frank picks it up.

INTERCUT - EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - COMMAND POST - NIGHT

COOPER
I've been reading your file.

FRANK
Learn anything about how to be an agent yet?

Cooper's calm and even, pacing as he talks.

COOPER
You've done a lot of service for this country. And when I put that together with your CIA visit where the only person that got hurt was me - I would say you value American lives.

(beat)
But if we come through that door, people are going to get hurt.

FRANK
I expect so.

COOPER
You don't want that.

FRANK
I didn't start this.

COOPER
I have orders.

FRANK
They're coming from the Vice President. He ordered these hits to cover up war crimes he committed in Afghanistan in September 1981.

(beat)
I buried the bodies in '81. They have you doing it now. You're killing everyone who was there.

Cooper doesn't bat an eye.
COOPER
I don't believe that.

FRANK
If you did, would it matter?

Cooper thinks it over, weighing it out.

COOPER
Yes.

FRANK
So what do you propose to do about that?

COOPER
You give yourself up. I'll take you into custody. You'll get to tell your side of the story.

Frank smiles grimly.

FRANK
Sure I will. Even if you brought me in, someone would just put a bullet in my head.

COOPER
That's not true.

FRANK
If you actually believe that, you're even more naive than I thought.

COOPER
You're surrounded. The FBI is going to take you apart. There is no exit here. But how it goes down is up to you.

Cooper hangs up.

INT. DUNNING'S HOUSE - FOYER - CONTINUOUS

Frank watches Marvin laying out his numerous weapons. Joe puts a hand on Frank's shoulder.

JOE
We don't have a lot of options, Kid.

FRANK
Yeah.
JOE
Somebody's going to have to make the tough choice if any of us are go ing to make it out alive.

A long, quiet moment of understanding passes between them:
love and sadness.

JOE (cont'd)
I think you're going to have to give yourself up.

Finally Frank nods.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - COMMAND POST - NIGHT

Cooper's phone RINGS. He answers.

FRANK (V.O.)
Hold your fire, I'm coming out.

Frank hangs up.

COOPER
All units hold fire. Repeat hold all fire. He's coming out.

200 yards out, Cooper watches the front door of the house open and a lone, black-clad figure steps out, hands raised.

CRACK! A shot rings out.

Frank falls.

Stunned, Cooper looks around furious...

COOPER (cont'd)
Who fired that shot?

No one says anything.

COOPER (cont'd)
WHERE DID THAT SHOT COME FROM!

He turns, reeling, realizing Frank was right: he's not in control of this situation.

Cooper draws his weapon and charges towards the house.

Frank lies motionless on the walkway.

Cooper rolls the body over.

It's Joe Matheson, dressed in Frank's clothes. He's dead.
PUSH IN on Cooper.

Suddenly GUNFIRE erupts from the back of the house, and RADIOS ARE SCREAMING.

FBI RADIO (V.O.)
FBI sniper teams are taking fire!
Two suspects have broken perimeter!

COOPER
Hell...

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - BACK FIELD - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Frank and Marvin race across an open field, making for the woods in the distance.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - FBI SNIPER NEST - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

An FBI sniper and his spotter squirm down into their cover as rounds SLAP into the ground inches from them.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - SNIPER'S NEST - NIGHT

Victoria lies prone, coolly squeezing off round after round keeping the sniper teams scrambling for cover.

VICTORIA
Now isn't this worth sitting in a hole for?

Sarah looks at her like she's insane.

VICTORIA (cont'd)
Keep an eye on the boys. When they make cover, we move.

Suddenly they're taking SMALL ARMS FIRE.

Victoria whips around, firing back, pulling Sarah up and pushing her into a run.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - WOODS - CONTINUOUS

Frank and Marvin hit the cover of the woods and immediately change direction, scrambling uphill.

EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - BACK FIELD - CONTINUOUS

A dozen men charge towards the woods in pursuit.
EXT. MARYLAND ESTATE - WOODED HILL - CONTINUOUS

Sarah runs just ahead of Victoria, crashing through the forest...

...straight into the arms of a black-clad COMMANDO.

He pins her, covering her mouth as his three partners cover the woods behind her, scoping for Victoria.

...but there is nothing but SILENCE.

EXT. ESTATE WALL - NIGHT

Frank slips over the wall, Marvin just behind him.
Sneaking up the perimeter, they suddenly raise weapons...
...and Victoria slips from the shadows with her rifle.

VICTORIA
They have Sarah.

Frank turns back to the estate wall: he's going over.

VICTORIA (cont'd)
You can't.
(beat)
How many are you willing to kill?

SOUNDS RISE as people crash through the underbrush behind them.

Up the road, other forces are closing in.

VICTORIA (cont'd)
Live to fight another day, Francis.

Sickened, Frank knows she's right.

INT. DUNNING'S HOUSE - STUDY - NIGHT

Two of the COMMANDOS move in, covering the room.
Dunning sits cuffed in his chair.

COMMANDO #1
Clear!

COMMANDO #2
Mr. Dunning?

DUNNING
Yes. Thank God.
FSST! FSST! The commando fires twice from a SILENCED pistol.

EXT. VIRGINIA WOODS - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Leading the way out of the woods, Frank pauses at the edge of a creek and a small country road.

A helicopter flies overhead, searchlight cutting the darkness.

And directly across from them a limo sits under the trees.
The door opens and out steps Ivan Siderov.

IVAN
Come! Now is not time to waste.

FRANK
How...?

The Russian smiles wide.

IVAN
You are not the only country with satellites.

MARVIN
(aside to Frank)
Why would he be helping us..?

But Ivan is staring at Victoria.

IVAN
Zaychick moy.

She smiles back.

VICTORIA
Hello Ivan. It's good to see you.

Frank looks between them.

FRANK
Did he just call you... bunny?

VICTORIA
Life, sometimes, is complicated.
EXT. COUNTRY HOUSE - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

I/E. BACK DECK - NIGHT

Victoria sits on the wide arm of Frank's chair, changing the dressings on his wounds. Through it all she somehow still manages to look stunning.

Marvin's off to one side, staring out into the night.

Ivan puts the finishing touches on a pitcher of martinis and pours a round.

    FRANK
    To Joe.

Everyone raises their glasses.

    ALL
    To Joe.

    FRANK
    A life of service and sacrifice.

They drink.

It's a long somber beat.

Finally Victoria breaks the silence.

    VICTORIA
    Does anyone want to discuss the fact that we're all dead?

    MARVIN
    It ain't over till it's over.

    VICTORIA
    The CIA's being used as the Vice President's personal hit squad.

It's a bit of a conversation crusher. Ivan holds up the pitcher.

    IVAN
    Anyone like another?

Victoria and Marvin raise their glasses.

    FRANK
    They say he's going to run for President.
VICTORIA
I don't think it's possible to outrun this. It's only a matter of time until they find us.

IVAN
You could come to Mother Russia.

MARVIN
When hell freezes over.

IVAN
St. Petersburg in the spring is very beautiful.

FRANK
Anyone else?

They think it over.

VICTORIA
Veritas vos liberabit. The truth will set you free.

MARVIN
Tell people?

VICTORIA
It's a thought.

MARVIN
What about Frank's girlfriend? What's her name? The cute one. They'd kill her so fast. Of course they might have already. But they'll interrogate her first. In fact, she's probably getting waterboarded right now...

VICTORIA
Marvin.

MARVIN
What?

He looks over at Frank who gets up, heading inside.

MARVIN (cont'd)
Oh.

INT. KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS

Frank stands at the kitchen sink as Ivan walks in.

IVAN
You okay?
FRANK
No.

IVAN
I want to show you something.

He starts unbuttoning his shirt.

IVAN (cont'd)
Don't get too excited.

Pulling it open reveals old scars from three bullet wounds.

IVAN (cont'd)
This was done to me by the love of my life. It seemed that what we had was not meant to be. But now she is sitting in my house drinking vodka.

FRANK
Victoria?

IVAN
Three bullets in the chest. But when I woke up alive, I knew that she still loved me - or it would have been the head.

Frank can't help but smile. Ivan buttons his shirt.

IVAN (cont'd)
Was a big risk for her of course, but one does crazy things for love. Look at me. I guarantee, helping you today is not a good career move.

(shrugs)
But you only live once, right?
(beat)
Do not fear, my friend. With a small, dedicated group, there is little that can not be accomplished.

INT. CIA - OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS - NIGHT

Cooper stands across the desk from Stevens.

COOPER
Someone took that shot. That's either another team in play or someone in our ranks. And the Dunning execution? That doesn't feel like Moses to me.

Stevens considers.
DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
I'll look into it.

COOPER
That's it?

Stevens is calm and thoughtful.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Do your job. I'll figure this out.

INT. INTERROGATION ROOM - NIGHT

Sarah sits in an interrogation room with an observation mirror, a table and two chairs bolted to the floor.

The door opens and Cooper enters with Frank's file. He takes a seat across from her and sets it between them.

COOPER
There will be no lawyer. No one is coming. There will be no record of what transpires here.

She stares at him.

COOPER (cont'd)
You're going to tell me what other agents are involved with Frank Moses, who helped him escape, and what his relationship is to that government.

Cooper puts a satellite photograph on top of Frank's file that shows Frank, Marvin, Victoria, and Ivan by the limo, but if you didn't know, an ID would be impossible.

COOPER (cont'd)
If you cooperate fully, there may be a light at the end of the tunnel. Until then, there is nothing I can not do to you. Nothing.

Sarah, shaking, slowly starts to cry.

COOPER (cont'd)
Look at the picture.

She takes the file with trembling hands, and...

Swinging as hard as she can, she catches Cooper full in the face with the six-inch-thick file. WHAM!

He goes down and she's around the table and out the door...
...where two LARGE GUARDS jump up, ready to grab her.

Sarah stops, realizing it's futile.

Turning, she walks back into the interrogation room where Cooper's regaining his feet.

She looks at him, icy, all traces of false emotion gone.

SARAH
The reason other people are involved is because they have honor and integrity. Stuff you wouldn't know about.
(beat)
So do what you need to do. And they'll do what they need to do.
And at the end of the day, we'll see who comes out in one piece.

Cooper smiles.

COOPER
You really do care for each other.

Sarah stares at him.

COOPER (cont'd)
That's how I'm going to get him.
Thank you.

INT. VICE PRESIDENT STANTON'S OFFICE - DAY

VICE PRESIDENT ROBERT STANTON, sitting alone in his dark office, looks up from his desk as the Director of Operations is ushered in.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Mr. Vice President.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Gary.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
I just received a report that Andrew
Dunning is dead.

The Vice President considers, looking at him evenly.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
I heard.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Is everything all right, sir?
VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
He was a good friend. He would have been pleased I'm going to seek the nomination.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Yes sir.
(beat)
Is there anything I can do for you?

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
No.

Stevens walks out, troubled.

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY
Cooper's at his desk. Jackson and Thomas sit waiting.

A phone RINGS. Thomas nods at Cooper.

THOMAS
Trace is running.

Cooper hits a button and picks up the phone.

COOPER
Operations.

FRANK (O.S.)
Here's the thing, Cooper. With age comes a certain perspective. I'm not sure you have what it takes to appreciate my position.

Cooper smiles.

COOPER
Try me.

THOMAS
(background)
It's a land line.

INTERCUT - INT. HOME OFFICE - DAY - CONTINUOUS
Frank leans back in his chair, rubbing his temples.

FRANK
I keep going over in my head if I was ever like you: the blind ambition and misplaced trust. I don't know.
COOPER

Does it matter?

FRANK

It might help me decide what to do next.

COOPER

What are you thinking about?

FRANK

There's a lot of hard things about our business. But in all my years, it wasn't the killing, or the stress, or the pay that bothered me. I didn't even realize what it was until it was too late.

Cooper looks at Thomas who whispers...

THOMAS

Almost there...

COOPER

What was it?

FRANK

It's how anything you love can be used against you. It taught me never to invest. Never to care.

(beat)

Once I became Frank Moses I lived my entire life without attachments. It took discipline, but I was damn good at it.

(beat)

And then I met Sarah. And now you have her. It's the worst thing in the world to know that your enemies could hurt the ones you love. The feeling of powerlessness is almost indescribable.

Cooper sits back, smug.

THOMAS

Got him!

Thomas excitedly scribbles an address on a pad and holds it up to Cooper.

Cooper goes pale. He looks like he's going to be sick.

FRANK

You there, Cooper?
COOPER
(covers the phone)
My house! He's at my house!

Jackson and Thomas scramble for phones.

Frank sits back, putting his feet up on the home office desk with pictures of Cooper, his wife and kids.

FRANK
It's just like I said, isn't it: almost indescribable.

Cooper looks like a shell of a man.

COOPER
Please...

Frank's tone shifts.

FRANK
Shut up! It's time to grow up and look at what's going on.

COOPER
Don't hurt them...

FRANK
Listen carefully. This is the part I was talking about where I'm not sure you have what it takes to understand.

As the others shout orders behind him, Cooper listens, riveted.

FRANK (cont'd)
I've spent my life doing terrible things for the CIA because I believed what I was doing was right. But when you find out that you've been a tool for corrupt political ends, like I was in Afghanistan, and like you're are now, you have to take a stand. This is a stain on our souls, Cooper.

There's a long beat.

COOPER
What are you going to do?

FRANK
The right thing. The moral thing. The thing you'd do yourself if you had any balls at all.

(more)
FRANK (cont'd)
(pause)
I'm going to kill the Vice President.

A reaction ripples through the room: oh shit.

FRANK (cont'd)
But my question, Cooper, is this.
What are you going to do?

CLICK. The line goes dead.

Cooper sits shell-shocked.

EXT. COOPER'S HOUSE - DAY

A SWAT van SCREECHES to a halt before the house, disgorging men who swarm the house...

...scaring the hell out of Cooper's wife and children in the middle of a backyard soccer game.

INT. OPERATIONS CENTER - DAY - CONTINUOUS

The phone rings and it's in Cooper's hand in an instant.

SWAT (V.O.)
They're fine, sir. They never even knew he was here.

Relief washes over him like a physical wave.

COOPER
Let me talk to my wife.

Jackson looks over at Cooper holding the line.

JACKSON
Why didn't he take them?
(beat)
We would have. You have his girl.

Cooper glances around the room. All eyes are on him.

COOPER
I don't know.

EXT. SELF-STORAGE UNIT - DAY

A rusty door rolls up revealing Frank and Marvin peering into this storage unit full of cheap dusty cabinets.

Pulling them open reveals a trove of rifles, machine guns, grenade launchers and mortars.
Marvin looks at Frank.

MARVIN

I want you to know I'm very excited.

FRANK

Back in '78 I thought I'd put a few things aside, you know, just in case.

Opening a locker, Frank pulls out a pair of vintage aviators and tries them on.

MARVIN

Explosives?

FRANK

Just past the ammo.

Marvin opens a locker: blocks of C-4, detonators, and primer-cord.

MARVIN

I love you, man!

---

EXT. CHICAGO - THE ALLERTON HOTEL - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

SUPERED TITLE: CHICAGO

This swank Miracle Mile landmark rises into the night with a steady stream of limos arriving out front.

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

Crystal chandeliers hang above a red, white and blue decorated stage. Sumptuous tables surround a dance floor where a band plays as WEALTHY DONORS mingle.

SECRET SERVICE AGENTS stand discretely around the perimeter of the large room, watching guests schmooze.

ON STAGE

Cooper confers with a tall thin man, AGENT BURBACHER, the head of Vice President Stanton's security detail.

AGENT BURBACHER

My team is set. You have anything?

COOPER

No.

Burbacher keys an inconspicuous radio.
AGENT BURBACHER
This is Burbacher. He's clear for entry.

Cooper heads off stage as behind him VICE PRESIDENT STANTON strides in, smiling a wide politician's smile as he's immediately surrounded and shaking hands.

Cooper joins Jackson off to one side.

JACKSON
Everything all right?

COOPER
I just have a feeling.

Cooper moves on and Thomas steps up.

THOMAS
He has a feeling?

JACKSON
No wonder Secret Service is sick of us.

As they look out, studying the crowd, Ivan Siderov passes behind them, wearing a tux, blending in perfectly.

INT. HOTEL KITCHEN - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Cooper walks into the kitchen, instantly assaulted by bright lights, heat, and dozens of people yelling at each other in different languages.

Surveying the perimeter, Cooper notes the placement of three Secret Service agents, and then heads out.

But WE STAY, following a BUSBOY wheeling a trash can past Secret Service and outside.

EXT. HOTEL - DUMPSTERS/LOADING DOCK - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

The busboy heaves his can up, emptying it into a dumpster... ...and is suddenly yanked up and over, disappearing inside.

INT. HOTEL KITCHEN - NIGHT

Rolling the can back inside past Secret Service... ...is Marvin.
Pushing the can into a dry storage closet, he reaches in, pulling out two heavy garbage bags which he sets on the floor with a METALLIC THUD.

EXT. THE ALLERTON HOTEL - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

A doorman opens a limo and out steps Victoria, looking absolutely stunning in a body-hugging, full-length gown.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

Victoria enters, garnering appreciative looks as she makes her way to the ballroom.

SECURITY CHECK

Stepping through the metal detector she generates a BEEP.

VICTORIA

Oh, of course.

Removing her heavy multi-strand necklace, she places it in a velvet tray held by a deferential young woman, then steps through cleanly.

SECURITY WOMAN

Thank you, ma'am.

But putting the necklace back on, she drops her clutch.

Someone is there instantly, picking it up and handing it back.

VICTORIA

Thank you so much.

MARVIN

Of course.

He walks off. She closes her clutch over whatever he slipped her and presents her invitation to the table of GREETERS.

GREETER

Welcome Ms. Smith. It's a pleasure to have you at our 2012 victory fund gala.

Victoria smiles wide.

VICTORIA

The pleasure is all mine.
INT. BALLROOM FOYER - NIGHT

Cooper stands looking out the windows as introductory remarks drone on behind him.

Pedestrians pass back and forth outside, but something catches his attention in the distance.

A FIGURE stands across the street, watching the hotel.

His collar's up and he's wearing a hat, but in the headlights of a passing car...

...it's Frank.

Cooper's instantly running, yelling into his radio.

COOPER
I have visual contact. Front of the hotel, across the street....

EXT. THE ALLERTON HOTEL - NIGHT

Bursting from the hotel, Cooper races down the steps, gun out as he plows into traffic.

Jackson and Thomas run after their boss, closing the gap until they reach him at the corner where the figure was.

Cooper's looking around wildly, but there's no one there, no one retreating, nothing.

Except... on a window ledge where Frank was standing, there's a single .45 caliber cartridge. Cooper picks it up, staring at the bullet...

COOPER
Back inside! Now!

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT

Cooper and Agent Burbacher square off, quietly but intensely, as the event continues behind them.

COOPER
Moses is here. You have to pull the VP.

AGENT BURBACHER
Just like in Jacksonville? The moment there is confirmed threat, I will call it. Until then...

COOPER
I just saw him...
AGENT BURBACHER
This isn't me. This is him. He's had enough of you. If there is something actionable we will act. Until then, this conversation is finished.

He turns and leaves, Cooper staring after him, stunned.

INTRO SPEAKER
...And so it is with great pleasure, I introduce to you, Vice President Robert Stanton!

The crowd bursts into THUNDEROUS APPLAUSE as Stanton takes the stage, waving. Cooper keys his radio.

COOPER
Stand ready.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Thank you. Thank you so much. I'll keep it short, so you'll actually write those checks you're promising.

As the audience laughs, WE CUT AROUND THE ROOM to all the Secret Service and CIA Agents in play.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON (cont'd)
It is this group here tonight that got us into the White House. And it is this group that will keep us there.

(beat)
My friends, I have not yet made the announcement publicly, but it's my intention to seek the nomination of our party for the presidency in 2012.

There's APPLAUSE and CHEERS.

Burbacher stands at the front of the stage staring out into the lights...

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON (cont'd)
We've come a long way together, but our best years are still ahead! So be generous. Get your friends to be generous, and I look forward to speaking with all of you across the course of the evening.

Jackson and Thomas flank Cooper, waiting...
God bless you all. And God bless America.

The MUSIC KICKS IN and APPLAUSE EXPLODES.

We PRESS IN on Cooper and...

BANG!

A SINGLE SHOT RINGS OUT. Cooper draws, looking for the gun...

...but sees only Jackson and Thomas staring at him like he's crazy as other champagne bottles POP.

Please join Adyline and me on the dance floor for a spin before dinner.

Chagrined, Cooper holsters his weapon.

I'm stepping out.

Couples fill the floor as he walks out past...

scanning the crowd, waiting...

...and suddenly there is an arm around her, sweeping her around and onto the dance floor.

Hello, bunny.

She glares at him.

Moves like that could get you killed.

Your radiance this evening renders me almost speechless.

Almost.

He leads a turn and spin which she executes perfectly.

Ivan smiles wide.

What are you grinning at?
You know I have always dreamed of killing the American President.

VICTORIA
Vice President.

IVAN
Tsch. Whatever. Having you in my arms again... I get carried away.

VICTORIA Really.

IVAN
Tell me you love me.

The song winds to a close, but he continues to dance.

VICTORIA
The song, Ivan. It's over.

IVAN
Is it?

(beat)

Ah. To work then.

Breaking their embrace, he heads off...

VICTORIA
Ivan!

He looks back and fumblingly she tries to hand him a small spray canister from her clutch.

IVAN
Oh. Yes. Of course.

He takes it, kisses her hand, and melts into the crowd.

Victoria sits, flushed, and for the first time we've seen her, not totally cool.

IVAN
moves through the crowded reception, canister held low at his side, covertly spraying a PUFF here and there.

People begins to SNIFF and a low murmur rises.

VICTORIA
makes her way to the main ballroom doors, pulling them closed. Stepping out, she calls back into the room.

VICTORIA
Gas! Oh my God! I smell GAS!
IVAN

on the opposite side of the room, pulls the fire alarm.

    IVAN

    FIRE!

INT. BATHROOM - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Cooper, splashing water on his face, looks up as ALARMS RING OUT.

INT. LOBBY - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

As SCREAMS RISE inside, Victoria pulls her necklace apart into individual cable loops, wrapping them through the handles of all the ballroom doors and clipping them shut, locking everyone inside.

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

PANIC RIPS THROUGH THE CROWD with Ivan doing his best to incite a riot, running with hands above his head, screaming like a little girl...

    IVAN

    It's going to blow!

AGENT BURBACHER

is in full control, his team immediately locking down the VP, pulling him to the back of the room.

    AGENT BURBACHER

    Stairwell two. Move! Move! Move!

COOPER

bursts into the ballroom, stunned at the chaos before him: people screaming and running, totally out of control.

    COOPER

    (into radio)

    Shadow the VP.

INT. STAIRWELL 2 - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

With two agents on point, four with the VP, and two in the rear, the Secret Service team hustles down the stairs.
INT. EXECUTIVE ELEVATOR - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

A LONE Secret Service AGENT stands before this elevator, trying to follow the action on his ear-piece.

Victoria appears at the far end of the hall.

LONE AGENT
This is a restricted area.

She smiles, smoothly making her way up the hall.

VICTORIA
I'm sure I'm allowed.

LONE AGENT
Ma'am. Stop. This area is off limits!

She continues forward, completely unfazed as the agent draws his weapon.

VICTORIA
(amused)
Put that away. Do you know who I am?

LONE AGENT
Stop or I will be forced to treat you as a threat.

She smiles even wider.

VICTORIA
Look at this dress. Where, exactly, is the threat?

The agent looks her over as she puts up her hands and closes the rest of the distance and...

WHAM: the gun is twisted out of his hand as he takes a chop to the side of the neck and goes down.

Victoria takes a moment to fix her boobs as Marvin enters the hall with two duffel bags.

They step into the elevator, she inserts a fireman's key, and hits G.

INT. GARAGE - NIGHT

Burbacher's point men burst out of the stairwell, covering the garage and pulling open the doors of the waiting car.

Burbacher and close security pile the VP into the car and it peels out, rounding a corner and...
Is ripped apart by automatic fire, heavy rounds pulverizing the front of the car, sending it smashing into a wall.

Screaming commands, Burbacher forces the VP out, using the car as a shield as rounds continue to pour in.

POINT MAN AGENT
What the hell are they using?

INSERT - VICTORIA
...blazing away with a belt-fed machine gun.

Behind her, Marvin fires bolts into the concrete, setting something up.

RETURN TO SCENE
Burbacher screams into his radio.

AGENT BURBACHER
We're taking heavy fire! Everyone move in! Get a car in here!

INT. GARAGE - ONE FLOOR UP - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS
Cooper and his team run down the garage ramp from one level up.

COOPER
Stay low, flank them.

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS
The doors give way and as a mass of trapped, screaming people charge safely for the exit, Ivan saunters after them, lifting a glass of Champagne from a table.

INT. LOBBY - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS
Sipping the drink, he calmly makes his way to the elevators, tapping twice on the second one from the left.

The doors roll open revealing Frank dressed in a conservative suit and tie.

IVAN
Good evening, Frank.

FRANK
Ivan.

He steps out as Ivan steps in, the doors rolling closed.
INT. ELEVATOR - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

SOOTHING MUSIC plays in the background.

As Ivan descends, he begins to hum the RUSSIAN NATIONAL ANTHEM, quietly at first, then louder and more enthusiastically, conducting with his drink until...

DING: the doors roll open onto chaos:

INSERT - GARAGE - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

...where a huge fire-fight is unfolding: the Secret Service team pinned down as another ARMORED LIMO moves in to get them cover.

Culminating the anthem, Ivan pulls a remote from his jacket and presses the button: a huge explosion rips out the front end of the back-up limo.

RETURN TO SCENE

The elevator doors roll back closed on the DEAFENING ACTION, and Ivan leans back, sips his drink, and listens to the SOOTHING MUSIC once again.

INT. GARAGE - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

As smoke from the limo explosion fills the air, Burbacher grabs his guys, and the VP.

AGENT BURBACHER
We're moving! South Exit! Go!

They break for the stairs as shots ring out behind them.

INT. GARAGE - SECOND LEVEL - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

Cooper's team angles in behind Victoria and Marvin's position, one row of cars back, listening to the FIRE.

COOPER
On my command. Two. One. Go!

They break, moving in, and...

The machine gun stands on a tripod, UNMANNED, firing bursts.

Cooper stares at it, furious, realizing...

COOPER (cont'd)
Outside! Outside!
EXT. THE ALLERTON HOTEL - NIGHT - ESTABLISHING

SWAT, firemen, and EMTs pour into the building.

INT. SUB LEVEL ONE - ACCESS CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Gun in one hand, Vice President's arm in the other, Burbacher leads the Secret Service team running through the access corridors under the hotel into a...

INT. ROOM SERVICE PREP KITCHEN - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

AGENT BURBACHER

Secret Service! Everybody down.

Workers duck as the team crosses the room.

But Burbacher sees something, shoving the VP down...

...as AUTOMATIC FIRE rakes the counter.

ANGLE ON MARVIN AND VICTORIA

In a side corridor. She empties the magazine and he hands her another as they watch kitchen workers scatter and the Secret Service return fire.

MARVIN

I remember the Secret Service being tougher.

VICTORIA

Me too.

But suddenly they're taking fire from behind, bullets SLAPPING in to the wall around them.

Marvin ducks, drawing a machine pistol and spraying the corridor.

MARVIN

I think it's SWAT.

VICTORIA (O.S.)

We have a problem, Marvin.

He looks over.

Victoria's on the floor, her dress awash in blood from a gunshot wound in her side.

Marvin's instantly in motion, delving into a duffel bag, pulling cans of smoke, yanking pins, tossing them out.
With smoke adding a new layer of confusion to the SHOUTING and GUNFIRE, he picks up Victoria, heading up a different corridor.

He hustles forward as fast as he can, but the SOUNDS OF PURSUIT rise behind him.

Marvin fires back down the hall, then pulls open a door revealing a utility closet and leans her inside.

VICTORIA (cont'd)
What the hell?

MARVIN
No choice.

She look at him, realizing he's right.

Stripping off his jacket, he puts it around Victoria.

Stepping back REVEALS he's wearing a vest, covered in plastic explosives.

VICTORIA
Good luck.

He gives her a wink.

MARVIN
You only live once, right?

He shuts the door, and takes off up the hall.

A moment later, a SWAT assault unit sweeps up the hall after him.

INT. CLOSET - NIGHT

Victoria takes off her shoes, pulls Marvin's jacket tight around her and tries to stand up.

INT. SUB LEVEL ONE - NIGHT

Stumbling out of the smoke, Burbacher checks the VP for wounds until Stanton pushes him off.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
I'm fine. Just get me the hell out of here.

AGENT BURBACHER
Kelsey! James! Up front.
INT. SUB LEVEL ONE - HALL - NIGHT

Victoria makes her way forward, weak but deliberate, her breathing fast and shallow.

Rounding a corner she finds herself at a steel security gate pulled across the concrete corridor.

SHOUTS and FOOTSTEPS rise behind her.

Defeated, she presses her face against the cold metal.

IVAN (O.S.)
Perhaps I can be of some assistance?

She looks up, finding him on the other side of the gate, already reaching through, picking the lock.

Smiling as the gate swings open, she takes his arm.

VICTORIA
I love you.

INT. WIDE CORRIDOR - NIGHT - CONTINUOUS

The Secret Service team clears a stairwell emerging into a wide ground-floor corridor of the hotel.

The corridor is empty, but Burbacher halts his team, looking around.

From the darkness at one end of the hall, a lone figure emerges.

It's Marvin, covered in explosives, holding a dead-man trigger in one hand.

The VP looks up in horror.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Oh God...

AGENT BURBACHER
Go!

The whole team takes off, pulling along the VP, running all-out towards the doors at the end of the hall.

Marvin starts after them, fingerling the trigger, screaming like a madman.

MARVIN
AAAAAAAAAAAAAGH!
EXT. THE ALLERTON HOTEL - NORTH SIDE - NIGHT

An explosion rips out of the hotel, a fireball billowing up into the night...

...as the Secret Service team spills out the door.

People outside run SCREAMING in all directions, but...

A SECRET SERVICE LIMO

...screeches to a halt beside the agents.

Burbacher and another agent pull the VP into the car and it peels out.

IVAN AND VICTORIA

stand among the refugee guests, onlookers, and emergency workers, watching from a distance as the car disappears into the night.

   VICTORIA
     He made it.

   IVAN
     That's it then.

CUT TO:

I/E. LIMOUSINE - DRIVING - NIGHT

With the VP between them, Agent Burbacher shares a look of palpable relief with the other Agent as the car SQUEALS around a turn, putting the hotel behind them.

   AGENT BURBACHER
     (into radio)
     We're clear. En route to airport now.

   CONTROL (V.O.)
     Copy that.

The limo pulls onto the highway, speeding into the night.

   VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
     (furious)
     How the hell did that happen?

Burbacher forces himself to keep cool.

   AGENT BURBACHER
     I don't know yet, sir.

The other Agent checks behind them for a tail: nothing.
OTHER AGENT

Looks clear.

DRIVER (O.S.)

Copy that.

THE CAMERA SLOWLY MOVES FORWARD to REVEAL that FRANK is the driver.

He puts on his signal and pulls over beneath an overpass.

AGENT BURBACHER

Why are we stopping?

Frank turns and fires a tazer, sending him into convulsions.

The other Agent reaches for his gun, but ZAP, gets tazed as well.

Stanton stares at Frank in horror.

ZAP!

CUT TO:

INT. LIMOUSINE - DRIVING - NIGHT

Stanton slowly comes around in the back seat, groaning.

His Secret Service Agents are gone.

His hands are zip-tied behind his back.

Frank glances at him in the rear view mirror.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON

Who are you?

FRANK

Frank Moses.

(beat)

One of the men you ordered killed.

The Vice President looks at him in fear.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON

I don't know what you're talking about.

Frank lets it go, just driving.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON (cont'd)

What do you want?

FRANK

From you? Nothing.
Stanton senses this is bad.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
I'm sure we can negotiate something...

FRANK
So now it's coming back to you?

Stanton pipes down.

FRANK (cont'd)
Or have there been so many that they all just blur together? Maybe you don't even think about it.
(beat)
I was prepared to live my life in peace. You couldn't even let me have that.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
I don't know....

FRANK
Afghanistan. I was there.

Stanton suddenly looks like he's been gut-punched. Like he's about to be sick.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Can we talk about this?

FRANK
You can talk all you want.

Frank slowly pulls over into a deserted lot near an industrial waterfront area beneath the El tracks.

FRANK (cont'd)
But I'm still going to kill you.

EXT. DESERTED LOT - NIGHT

He gets out of the car, opens the rear door, and pulls Stanton out, spilling him into the dirt.

FRANK
On your knees.

The VP crawls up, coming apart, on the verge of tears.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
I didn't kill anyone.
(sobbing)
I tried to stop it.
(more)
VICE PRESIDENT STANTON (cont'd)
They pulled me out because my dad knew it wouldn't matter. I was there.

Frank unholsters his old .45 and crouches down to look the VP in the eye.

FRANK
It's not that I want revenge. I don't care about you. But there are rules about how you treat your tools. The people who do things for you do it because they believe in the greater good.

Frank holds up his set of dog tags. Now we see that the name and number have been filed out.

FRANK (cont'd)
I joined up when I was seventeen and took an oath to defend this country. They stamped these tags with the name my mother gave me. Later the Company erased that name forever. These are a symbol of that sacrifice.

A train goes by overhead with a deafening ROAR.

Frank levels his gun at the Vice President.

FRANK (cont'd)
Today I am going to restore honor to your office.

Suddenly bright lights pin Frank.

COOPER
Freeze!

Cooper emerges from a car, weapon drawn.

COOPER (cont'd)
Do this, you're dead!

Frank glances at Cooper, then back at the VP, as the POUNDING of a helicopter draws close.

FRANK
I guess I'm okay with that.

He starts to move, but Cooper pulls Sarah from the car, covering her with his weapon.

She and Frank lock eyes. So close but so far.
He looks between her and the VP.

FRANK (cont'd)
I love you.

SARAH
I love you too.

Frank looks at Cooper.

FRANK
She goes free.

Cooper nods.

FRANK (cont'd)
Swear it on your family's life.

COOPER
I do.

Sarah looks between them, horrified.

SARAH
No...

Frank slowly lowers his .45.

It CLATTERS to the ground.

Jackson and Thomas move in on him, guns ready.

Frank puts his hands above his head, and as the chopper lands, kicking up dust over the scene, his eyes never leave Sarah's as he's cuffed.

Stevens gets out of the chopper.

Approaching Cooper, he eyes Frank and the VP.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
That's him?

COOPER
That's him.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Good work.

Cooper gives him a nod.

COOPER
Yes sir.

The VP approaches Stevens, still shaking, furious...
VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
What the hell have you done? I asked you to find out who knew about Afghanistan to see if we could control the story.

Frank watches this, trying to figure it out.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Which is exactly what I did. I protected this administration and made this campaign possible. With the stroke of a pen, I gave you a shot at the presidency.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
You had people killed!

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
No one who mattered.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Americans!

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
Nobody cares!

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
This isn't what I wanted!

Stevens smiles coldly.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS STEVENS
These aren't details you need to be concerned about. All you need to remember is that you owe me.

The VP starts towards him.

VICE PRESIDENT STANTON
Is that why you did this?

Cooper steps between them, stopping the VP.

He nods to Jackson and Thomas.

COOPER
Escort the Vice President to the chopper.

They pull him away, leaving Cooper and Stevens alone with Frank and Sarah.

Cooper takes out a syringe.

SARAH
No!
Cooper steps to Frank who stares him down, unflinching. Lashing out, Cooper jabs it into Stevens' neck. He gasps, eyes bugging.

    COOPER
    You disgust me.

Clutching his chest, Stevens collapses to the ground. Sarah looks away. But Frank's eyes never leave Cooper. Uncuffing Frank, Cooper holds out his .45.

    FRANK
    Maybe there's some hope for the Company after all.
    COOPER
    Maybe.

Frank takes the gun. Sarah leaps into Frank's arms and they embrace.

    COOPER (cont'd)
    I want you to come back home.
    FRANK
    Home?
    COOPER
    A chance to work again. To train the next generation.

Frank considers, then tosses Cooper his tags and takes Sarah's hand.

    FRANK
    I'm retired.

Cooper watches them walk away.

    COOPER
    Where are you going to go, Frank? What else do you have?

But suddenly a figure steps out of the darkness to meet Frank: Marvin, carrying a RPG.

And then another figure emerges: Victoria, rifle slung.

A car starts in the darkness and pulls close: Ivan's behind the wheel, still dressed in his tux.

Frank and Sarah embrace their friends.
Frank looks back at Cooper, then slips into the car and is gone.

INT. CAR - DRIVING - NIGHT

Frank and Sarah kiss...

And Ivan leans back, totally interrupting.

    IVAN
    So Frank. I was wondering if you would go on little errand with me.

Victoria turns from the front passenger side.

    VICTORIA
    His timing is terrible.

    IVAN
    Is just a tiny little nuclear problem in Moldova. A day or two, no big thing. Sarah, you will love the countryside.

Frank looks at him, stunned.

Marvin, squeezed in next to him, elbows him in the side.

    MARVIN
    Come on, man, it's just the safety of the world.

Frank's about to answer and we...

    FADE OUT.